

The water from the artesian well was turned into the hydrants Monday of this week and we now have the best fire protection in the state once more. The well shows over 50 pounds pressure to the square inch, which is sufficient to throw water over any building that we have in the city.—Wimbledon News.