
Rev. Wood Family Leaving

Last week we printed a brief item to the effect that Rev. Nathan Wood had accepted a call to take charge of the Presbyterian congregations at Willow City and Omamee, this state. This week he has made arrangements to ship his household goods, and he expects to leave this week with his family for his new field of labor.

Rev. Wood has spent about three years in this community serving the congregations of Hannaford and Karnak. In that comparatively short time he has won the friendship and admiration of hundreds of people, not only within his own congregation, but among all with whom he has come in contact. He has taken an active interest in all civic affairs, and his word and hand has always been at the service of all welfare and patriotic work.

The departure of this estimable family will be keenly felt by their hosts of friends in this community, but the best wishes of us all go with them to their new home.
