

Miss Hilma Gjestvang, whose engagement to Harry Stai has long been an open secret, was most pleasantly entertained at a parcel shower on Tuesday evening. The affair was a complete surprise on Miss Gjestvang, who had no intimation whatever of what was going to take place till she came home from work and found that the house had been completely taken possession of by a host of friends. The rooms were prettily decorated with red hearts and festoons of red and white crepe paper. A buffet luncheon was served. The bride-to-be received many beautiful and useful gifts for her new home.
