

A large crowd gathered at the N. P. depot here last Wednesday to bid good-bye to the second draft quota who passed through for training at Camp Dodge. The names of these boys were published in last week's Enterprise. The Sentinel - Courier says: "Everyone of the 34 men called appeared for roll call promptly at 5 o'clock p. m., excepting three or four who came down on the train and they reached the courthouse a very few minutes after the arrival of the train. All were ready to go. However, two of them pleaded they still had matters of business or work to accomplish yet if they could be excused from going at this time and as there were others present anxious to go at this time, the two who desired it were excused until the next contingent is to go. They were Oscar M. Olson and John Kvía. It appears now that at the next call every man certified back from the district board will have to go."
