

a vacation that week and take in both the games and Chautauqua entertainments. /

Last Thursday the Hannaford band and other boosters of a number sufficient to fill thirteen automobiles, made a trip to a few of the neighboring towns to advertise the Hannaford Chautauqua. Walum, Dazey, Luyerne, Cooperstown and Jessie were all visited and duly serenaded. At Jessie a rain and hail storm cut off further progress west, the rain literally pouring down and a few chunks of ice of almost the size of hens' eggs fell. No difficulty was found in splashing through the mud out of Jessie and about three miles south there had been no rain. Sutton was visited and from there the course was turned homeward, the trip totaling a little over one hundred miles. August Werth, A. W. Anderson and Wm. C. Coates were dressed up as clowns and contributed greatly to the gaiety of the occasion. Roads were in fair condition considering the large amount of rainfall of late. It is hoped that the towns visited will all send large delegations to attend the Chautauqua.

In an effort to get rich (and who doesn't aspire to wealth?) it is better to lay a foundation as a man lays bricks, saving little by little, laying by each week or each month a few dollars which when they get together in the bank will form the foundation for a great structure when the time comes to build. That way
