

E. C. Moe, a farmer living nine miles north of Cooperstown, suffered a terrible accident last Friday afternoon. As he was driving his team and wagon near the postoffice at Cooperstown, the horses started to run away. Mr. Moe was thrown out and broke both legs. One leg was broken at two places between the hip and the knee, the other leg was broken just above the knee. Being an old man seventy years of age, it is doubtful if he will be able to be on his feet again.
