

Two Fords, one driven by Claus Jackson and the other by C. Reite, collided into each other Sunday evening on the corner near Wm. Angus' residence. Mr. Jackson was coming from the west and Mr. Reite from the north, and they both arrived at the corner at exactly the same time with the result that Mr. Reite's car was overturned and the occupants, consisting of Mr. Reite's family, were pinned underneath the car. Prompt assistance was given and miraculously no one was injured. The accident was surely a fortunate one in that comparatively little injury was done, considering the possibilities.
