The Karnak News

Bert Law was in town this week. Coffee is ready at the new restaurant.

Mr. Rood was a Hannaford visitor last Saturday.

Don't forget the dance at the hall Friday evening, Jan. 25th.

Howard Curtis is at Fargo attending a course of engineering.

Wille Magnusson is assisting at the Wickham farm north of town.

Ed Zutler, of Laverne, was a business caller in our village Wednesday.

Owing to the severe storms in the East the trains have been rather late.

Andy Michaelson is busy these days making a covered sleigh for J. J. Hogness.

Cal Ross and wife were visitors at the Claude Ross home west of Dazey last week.

Christ Holmes, assistant road master, was a caller in our town a short time Wednesday.

H. J. Larson went to Fargo Wednesday evening on No. 200, where he transacted business.

Joe Griestinger has been assisting Mr. Hogness during the recent illness of Mr. Houghton.

Don't forget to read the ads in the Karnak section of the Enterprise. You will find that it pays.

Alfred Magnusson left Wednesday for Devils Lake, where he will be employed by the Great Northern.

A big crowd attended the Red Cross meeting which was held at the Ed Labrey home west of town last week.

Rev. Wilson and Asher Anderson were visitors in Karnak last week in the interest of the Armenian-Serbian relief fund.

Mr. E. J. Mosher and son returned last week from Rochester, Minn., where she had taken the little fellow to consult a doctor.

Mrs. John Wheland and Miss Kunze left last week for Hot Springs Ark., where they are receiving treatment at one of the hospitals there.

John Carlson and brother of Piney were business callers in our village last Saturday. These two gentlemen are connected with the Karnak State Bank and were over on business connected with that institution.

Earl Houghton, the efficient and accommodating clerk at the Hogness store, has been quite sick the past week. He had a good touch of the Lagrippe, but has recovered enough to again get on the trade at that place.

Karnak surely does its share in shipping cream. Merchant E. W. Trapp does the buying of cream in town and nearly every day brings enough cream to the depot to float a battleship. We certainly have the dairy country here.

The next big dance will be held at the hall on Friday evening, Jan. 25th. The Dazey orchestra, known throughout this section as one of the best, has been secured to furnish music. This will be like the rest of them—a good clean dance—with plenty of fun.

Howard Haslett, who has been one of the guards at the big bridge, resigned his position last week and on Monday left for his home at Juana. Mr. Haslett will take a vacation until spring when he will again return to take up his work. We have not learned who took his place at the bridge.

The Box Social held last Wednesday evening was well attended considering the severity of the weather. The sum of $30.00 was realized for the fund for the relief of Armenians and Serbians, and in addition those who were in attendance enjoyed a very pleasant evening as games were played after the lunch boxes had been disposed of. Karnak is always willing to do her share in helping patriotic and charitable causes.

The new restaurant is now opened to the public and is doing a flourishing business. The new managers expect to add some new fixtures at later date and will try to serve the people the very best the market affords.

Miss Mary Fenton accompanied her sister, Amy, to Cooperstown Thursday, where Amy had a doctor's up her arm which she had broken in the early part of the winter. The arm is now healed completely and the little girl has again resumed her school duties.

Ed Labdry, one of our most enterprising farmers west of town, honed in the other day and said that in case of storm and he couldn't get to town for the social, to put him down for a donation of $5.00 to the Armenian-Syrian relief fund. This shows what kind of people we have around Karnak—the best to be found in the world.

This week this issue of The Enterprise will be sent to a great number of Karnak and vicinity people a sample copies. We are doing this to show you that hereafter Karnak will have a small space in the paper devoted wholly to the town and vicinity. Now we would like to get a goodly number of subscribers to the paper and would ask you to all at the Karnak restaurant and save your orders with J. D. Peterson, who will then send it to The Enterprise office and your name will be placed on the subscription lists. We also ask those who want job printing done to leave orders there so.

KARNAK--The City With a Future

Although on nearly every map of North Dakota which you pick up, you may look it over and scan the map from one end to the other to find Karnak, as a rule you will nearly always find the name of Fairview in some unfortunate manner. This name has never been changed on the map and at times make it very messy when one tries to find Karnak. But Karnak is nevertheless here and here to stay. In the past people would speak humorously about spending their vacations, etc., at Karnak, but now it will be proven that the little town is forging ahead in great strides.

If you will look up on the map you will notice that the town of Fargo is situated just 67 miles east of our city, on the Fargo-Surrey cutoff.

Although only three or four years old it already has two splendid general merchandise stores who also handle hardware, etc., a bank which would be a credit to a town ten times the size of Karnak, three elevators—the Farmers, Amenia, and the St. Anthony & Dakota Elevator, a lumber yard owned by the Crane-Ohsson people, a blacksmith shop, hall and restaurant.

Next summer the town is going to boom in great style. A big hardware and implement building is going to go up. We understand some people from Finley will put in this business here. A butcher shop will be another business which is to come in and plans are already under way to have a building erected as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

Another business which will be relocated here and which goes in as soon as spring opens, and that is a barber shop. This will indeed be a great thing for the town as nearly all our townspeople now go to Hannaford, Laverne and other towns to get their tonsorial work done.

We understand that a party from Laverne will put up a livery stable and run a dray line in connection in the spring.

No doubt several more business institutions will go in this summer. You might ask what makes that town have such a future? It is a very easy question to answer. Karnak is situated in the very heart of the greatest agricultural and dairy community of North Dakota. It has a large territory to draw from and farmers from fifteen to twenty miles haul their grain and cream to our city.

This village is also a great shipping station for stock. Many carloads of cattle and hogs are shipped out of here every month to the eastern markets.

We still have an opening here for several enterprising institutions and those who are interested would do well by writing to the secretary of the Commercial Club.

You will certainly find a warm welcome if you locate in the best little town in the state—KARNAK.

An English prisoner in Germany writes home that the last pair of boots they sent him were the best he ever tasted.

It was reported that the cause of the poor crops in Germany last summer was the drought, but we venture to say that the most of Germany's troubles can be attributed to a bad rain.

After Dead Oil Man. Oklahoma is trying to recover inheritance tax on about $6,000,000 of property of the late John D. Archibald, property, by the way, which the oil man accumulated without living in the state and perhaps never being within its borders. Hoover's Most Recent Summary. Dishonest wholesale and retail merchants and food brokers have been criminally responsible in no small measure for the shortages of many foodstuffs, especially perishables, and also for mounting prices. The French have discovered that American baseball bats men for three ing hand grenades with precise and efficiency. It also affords a fine and perfectly legitimate chance to kill the umpire favoring the other side. The young man who married to escape the draft should not forget that his wife is likely to remind him of that action in an annoying way at times when she is irritated. Thomas A.
