News is scarce again as we have been too busy to nose around for news. After the social next Thursday night we will make it a point to get out and look up more news.

Miss Laura Fadness went to Fargo Monday where she went to consult a doctor regarding her hand which has been bothering her for some time. She returned home Wednesday morning.

Rev. and Mrs. Doty of Oakes were here over Sunday and held sermons at the hall Sunday afternoon and evening. We understand they will be with us again Easter Sunday. Bear this in mind and plan to attend the services.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Anderson arrived here Thursday from northern Minnesota and will make this their future home. Mr. Anderson has bought half interest in the J. J. Hogness store and will soon start in taking charge. The people of Karnak and vicinity welcomes these people to our little city.

The car which jumped the track east of Hannaford and rode the rails into Karnak last Friday night, brought a lot of strangers to our city, who made this town their headquarters. The tracks are now in good shape and traffic has been again resumed.

The coming event of the season will be the play which will be put on by the ladies aid society next Thursday evening, March 14. This will indeed be the biggest social affair that has ever been held in Karnak. The ladies of the aid have been rehearsing for about two months, and every member of the play is an expert. The name of the play is "Cornelia Pickle, Plaintiff". The name alone tells you it's a good play. Besides the play there will be music, singing, recitations, etc., by several other people. After the play a big oyster supper will be served, and those who do not care for oysters will find many other good things to eat. The ladies will donate to the Red Cross, so that is one reason why this play was gotten up. You can't afford to miss this as it will be worth the money to hear it. Don't forget the date and plan to come.
