

John Nelson returned today from Cherokee, Iowa, where he has spent a couple of weeks receiving treatment from specialists for cancer of the cheek. He underwent an operation for cancer of the lip at that place last summer and was seemingly well, but a short time ago he noticed the disease was attacking him again and lost no time in reaching the same specialists again.

Starting some time Sunday night