that his tongue might cleave to the roof of his mouth. It was not because I had any malice against him in my heart, but because he was, by protracting his sermons so unreasonably, inflicting on me sufferings too great to be borne. I knew him better in after years, and became sincerely attached to him; and if he had not been ignorant of all that passed through my mind during those winter services, I would have confessed my un-

A reporter of the Star recently visited a factory in this city where false teeth are made by the million. In the process of manufacture the silex and feldspar in their crude state are submitted to a red heat and then suddenly thrown into cold water, the effect being to render them more easily pulverized. Having been ground very fine in water and the water evaporated the two materials mentioned are dried and sifted. The kaolin is washed free from impurities.
