C. P. Dahl For Governor Club Formed

Special to The Fargo Forum COOPERSTOWN, N. D.—A C. P. Dahl-for-Governor Club was organized at a meeting here Tuesday night attended by some 75 persons.

Despite stormy weather, the communities of Finley, Sharon, Hannaford, Binford, Jessie and Cooperstown were represented.

Donald Loder was elected president of the club and Willis Nilson secretary-treasurer. Finance and publicity committees are to be appointed.

C. O. Johnson, Hannaford, Griggs County chairman of the Republican Organizing Committee, opened the meeting, called to promote the candidacy of Lieutenant Governor Dahl for the governorship endorsement at the ROC state convention.

A number attending pledged their support and Dahl expressed his appreciation for the support given him by the local community.

Legislators attending were Sen. L. A. Sayer and Rep. Frank L. Kloster of Griggs-Steele.

Schnell, Dahl Are Virtually In Race For N. D. Governor

By GIFFORD HERRON

Northwest Editor, The Fargo Forum
Names of two North Dakotans are virtually in the ring for the June Republican race for the gubernational nomination.

They are the same two who battled to a close finish in 1952 for the lieutenant governorship — Ray Schnell of Dickinson and Lt. Gov. C. P. Dahl of Cooperstown. Dahl won that 1952 race by 1,378 votes.

This became apparent Tuesday after an announcement from Dickinson that a Schnell-for-governor organization was formed at a meeting there Monday night.

The intention of that group is to expand the move into a statewide organization for Schnell to enter the primary on a straight Republican basis without endorsement by a convention of any particular faction.

Schnell for years has been identified with the Nonpartisan League.

When word of the Dickinson meeting reached Griggs County, it was learned by The Fargo Forum Tuesday afternoon that the Griggs County Republican Organizing Committee plans to advance the name of Dahl for endorsement for governor by the state ROC convention.

It's been generally known for some time that Dahl is interested in the governorship.

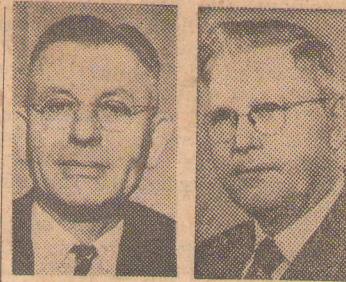

One prominent Griggs County ROC member, who asked that he not be named, because he isn't a member of the county committee, said:

"I know the county ROC committee here has been talking about putting forth Dahl's name for the endorsement, but they didn't know just when would be the best time. But now that Schnell's name has been brought out, I think Dahl's should be too."

C. O. Johnson of Hannaford, Griggs ROC county chairman, could not be reached for comment.

When informed of the Dickinson meeting, and asked if he was or wasn't a potential candidate for governor, Dahl told The Fargo Forum:

"I've always adhered to the policy of the ROC that it was the endorsing convention which decided who were to be candidates. Naturally, if I receive the endorsement for governor, I'm not going to turn it down."

When asked about the action regarding Schnell, Dahl said:

"I would like to see a two-party system in North Dakota. If the Nonpartisan League goes into the Democratic column I see no object in two sets of candidates in the Republican column in the primary election.

"The Old Guard Leaguers (with whom Schnell is identified) have always maintained they are stalwart Republicans and certainly the ROC is the Republican organization in the state.

(Members of ROC control the official Republican party).

"If there is a move by the Old Guard to sponsor a primary ticket then I see no other alternative than for the ROC to promote an entire slate of candidates. That will make a dogfight of the whole political picture."

Rep. R. Fay Brown of Bismarck, ROC state chairman, told The Fargo Forum Tuesday "We still plan to go ahead with our organization."

"I was not consulted about the meeting and I didn't know any thing about it until you called," Longmire said.

"It was not an official Republican meeting," he continued. He mentioned that Schnell is vice chairman of the GOP central committee.

Longmire said that any action
he takes on the coming election depends on what the Nonpartisan League organization does.

The League organizations are controlled by the Insurgents, who are attempting to place the NP in the Democratic column.

"If the League goes into the Democratic column I feel I will call a state Republican convention for the purpose of endorsing a slate of state officials and for Congress and the U. S. Senate," Longmire said.

"Delegates to such a convention would endorse candidates of the official party," he continued.

He said that a poll he conducted last fall among Republican precinct committeemen indicated they were in favor of a straight Republican endorsing convention.

State Sen. Carroll Day of Grand Forks, an Independent Republican allied with the state Senate Coalition of Leaguers, Independents and Democrats, said he looked for other actions similar to that of Schnell "to be popping up but to all eventually come into a liberal Republican organization."

He said that probably would include Republican Leaguers, Young Republicans, Independent
Republicans and Progressive Republicans.

"I would be very surprised if Schnell didn't become associated with some such liberal organization before this is over," Day said.

"I'm not set on any candidate for governor yet," he continued.

Day said that, whether or not he's a candidate for any office, he would be active in the coming campaign, "because it's important to the people of North Dakota that we have a good governor."

Day has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the U. S.
Senate and for governor.

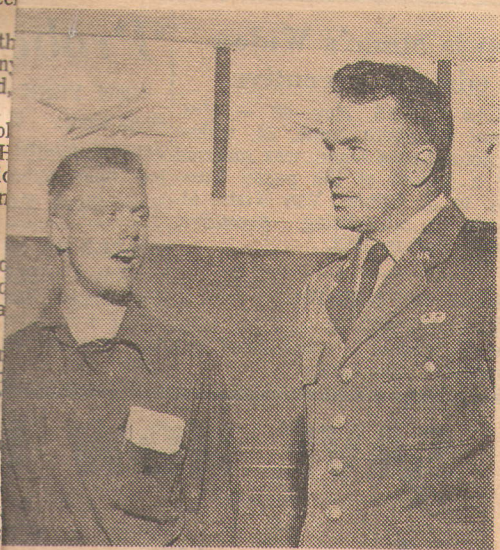

On that score, Day said:
"What everyone forgets, I don't have to be a candidate for any office to be active in a campaign."

He is a holdover state senator from the 6th District, Grand Forks County.

The action taken on Schnell's behalf at Dickinson Monday night set political tongues wagging and some observers see the possibility of a three-way race in the Republican primary.

The last three-way Republican primary race was in 1946 when Fred G. Aandahl, ROC, received an overwhelming margin for the nomination against Elmer Cart, Leaguer, and Lynn J. Frazier, who came out of semi-retirement and ran with support of his old-time League friends.

Frazier was the first governor of

JANE COWELL DOCK '55

Mrs. Lucetta Jane Dock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Cowell, died Saturday, October 2, at Mercy hospital in Valley City.

She is survived by her husband, Morris, who had left only a few months before to accept a position in Iraq, two daughters, Tara Lee Ann, and Maren Jane; two sisters, Patricia (Mrs. John Sathe), St. '40, of St. Cloud, Minn., and Nancy; one brother, Lee.

Born May 23, 1918, she was a graduate of both the Valley City high school and State Teachers College, receiving her degree from the latter in 1947.

Her husband flew from Iraq for the funeral and to make arrangements for his children to live with Mrs. Sathe, in St. Cloud.

Though never in rugged health, Mrs. Dock refused always to give into her illnesses. She always lived above them, and whenever possible took active part in social and community activities, giving cheerfully of her time and energy. Two years ago she served as our alumni president, presiding very graciously over the McFarland Memorial exercises.

Her mother, Mrs. Cowell, will be remembered as Grace Forbes, 1916.

Dies In Iraq Plane Crash

A North Dakota pilot employed on a cotton control project under the Point Four program was killed when his light plane crashed in northern Iraq Friday.

He was Morris Dock, 36, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Dock, Aneta, N. D., and an employe of Air Activities, Inc., of Fargo.

Duane Strand, president of Air Activities, was informed of the mishap Saturday by the State Department.

Also killed was an Iraq pilot, Souren Topalian. The Associated Press said their plane stalled and crashed into a house in the village of Shaikhan.

Dock, who flew for the Federal Aid Division of the North Dakota Game and Fish Department before joining Air Activities in July, 1954, was a glider pilot in World War II.

He had been overseas since July, 1954 with Air Activities, which operates 14 planes in 12 countries under contract with the government.

Strand said it was the first fatal accident for the concern in 10 years of operation, including four overseas.

Dock's wife died last fall. His two children, Tara Lee Ann Elliott, a stepdaughter, and Maren Jane Dock, have been residing with relatives in St. Cloud, Minn.

Strand said arrangements were being made at the time of Dock's death for Tara Lee Ann, who is 14, to travel to Iraq to live with her father.

The body will be returned to Aneta.

Lt. Gov. Dahl Praises ROC Road Program

Accomplishments of the Republican Organizing Committee's 10-year administration in building roads were cited by Lt. Gov. C. P. Dahl in a radio address last night.

"During the last decade, under the supervision of the ROC administration, a long-range road program has been formulated and the effects of this program are very evident in all communities of the state at this time," Dahl says. "Generally speaking our road system today is in good condition and additional building and hard-surfacing is in progress in an orderly manner.

"During this ten year period of ROC administration we will have spent $82,926,934 on the state road system. This gave us 2,566 miles of new and reconstructed grades; it gave us 2,818 miles of gravel surface; it gave us 1,777 miles of bituminous or hard black top surface roads; and it gave us 109 miles of cement or concrete surface roads. This is but a small portion of our vast road system, consisting of over 7,000 miles.

"In addition to this the counties have spent $14,081,057 in construction of county roads, participating in township and federal aid. This is a marvelous record of proof of efficiency, as during the Brunsdale administration no new tax has been granted or involved; although in order to continue this road program which requires the matching of federal funds, either a diversion of present earmarked tax monies or new tax monies must be accomplished."

Lt. Gov. Dahl, Haugen Differ On Taxation Of Oil Industry

By GIFFORD HERRON

Northwest Editor, The Fargo Forum
Two veterans in the legislative branch of the state government are seeking the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor in the June 29 primary election.

They are the incumbent, C. P. Dahl of Cooperstown, endorsed by the Republican Organizing Committee, and Donnell Haugen of Roseglen (McLean County), endorsed by the Nonpartisan League. The winner will oppose Dr. S. B. Hocking of Devils Lake, Democrat, in the November election.

If Dahl gets the nomination and goes on to win in the fall, it will be his fifth term as lieutenant governor. He was elected in 1944, 1946, 1948 and in 1952. In 1950, Dahl was not a candidate for that post but he was elected state senator from the Griggs-Steele legislative district.

One of the main functions of lieutenant governor is presiding over the state Senate during legislative sessions.

Haugen is a veteran House member, having served in the 1941, 1943, 1945, 1947 and 1953 sessions. He has been a member of the Legislative Research Committee.

In 1948, Haugen was defeated in the primary election for insurance commissioner. He then became a legislative assistant for Congressman Usher L. Burdick in Washington, returning to North Dakota to be elected to the House from McLean County in 1952.

Dahl and Haugen take opposite views on the taxing of North Dakota's newest industry—oil development.

Dahl, as presiding officer in the Senate, watched a bitter fight waged between the Nonpartisan League-Independent coalition and the ROC on the oil tax. The ROC, with the help of one Leaguer, put across the 4 1/4 per cent gross production tax and the 27 1/2 per cent depletion allowance for income tax purposes.

In the current campaign, Dahl takes a stand of leaving the oil tax where it is and he opposes elimination of the depletion allowance.

Haugen favors increasing the gross production tax but "perhaps 10 per cent would be too high" and he favors elimination of the 27 1/2 per cent depletion allowance.

Haugen wants the oil tax to be the No. 1 method for increasing revenue for highways. His next choice for highway financing is increasing license fees and third a five-mill property levy.

He's against the proposals, which may be initiated measures in the fall election to divert some of the sales tax money for highways and to make one cent of the gas tax now being paid non-refundable.

Dahl, on the other hand, favors using the sales tax on automobiles, trucks and accessories for highway purposes.

North Dakota Whirligig C. P. Dahl Campaigns Early; Day Ready To Blast ROC

By GIFFORD HERRON

Northwest Editor, The Fargo Forum

With oodles of 50th and 75th anniversary celebrations in North Dakota towns this year, such ready-made crowds could have been politicians' paradise if 1955 was an election year.

But it isn't and persons attending these events can go home without their pockets being stuffed full of candidates' campaign cards or a sore arm from office-seeking hand shakers.

However, Lt. Gov. C. P. Dahl of Cooperstown isn't letting these off-year gatherings go to "waste," whether it is a jubilee celebration or some other kind of gathering.

C. P. is out making speeches about this and that, shaking a lot of hands, keeping his name and physiognomy before a lot of voters.

It's been rather common knowledge that Dahl has wanted the Republican Organizing Committee endorsement for governor for a long time.

He has served several sessions as a state senator and is presently in his fourth two-year term as lieutenant governor.

After his easy win for lieutenant governor in 1954, his close political associates started the word that C. P. would be the man for the ROC gubernatorial endorsement.

All Don't See Eye-To-Eye With Dahl, Associates

There are quite a few recognized ROC members who don't see eye to eye with Dahl and some of his close political allies. It's possible that they may speak out a little louder in opposition to Dahl by endorsing convention time next spring.

Even those who oppose Dahl recognize him as a vote getter—at least his ability to gather in the votes for lieutenant governor.

The ROC is going to have to come up with a new candidate for governor. Gov. Norman Brunsdale, now in his third term has flatly stated he will not seek the office again.

Meanwhile, Dahl is getting around the state. He spoke last week at Buffalo's 75th anniversary. He's scheduled to talk at Drayton Thursday when that Pembina County town dedicates its new lighting system, 12 blocks of Main Street pavement and observes Pembina County Veterans Day.

The Pierce County Tribune, published at Rugby, had an item the other day about Dahl writing the committee in charge of the North Dakota State Championship Horse Show to offer his "services in whatever capacity needed." Dahl made a speech at Rugby.

You can bet a sarsaparilla or two that C. P. will make an appearance at some more of the summer gatherings around the state this year, including jubilees, fairs, etc.

Former N. D. Solons Visit Legislature

By The Bismarck Bureau of The Fargo Forum

BISMARCK, N. D. — It was a speech-making day in the North Dakota Senate Friday for three men who served in that chamber in past years.

Sporting a healthy start of a full beard, C. P. Dahl of Cooperstown, who served as Senate president five sessions when he was lieutenant governor and three sessions as a senator from Griggs-Steele, told the Senate "That before you are through there will be a number of issues where you won't be as well agreed as you are now."

"And that's a good thing," he added.

The reason for the beard? Cooperstown is celebrating its 75th anniversary June 27 - 28 and Dahl is general chairman of the event.

Lt. Gov. Clyde Duffy of Devils Lake introduced the "Cooperstown brother of the brush" by saying "this is not Ernest Hemingway."

Rilie R. Morgan of Grafton, who served 16 years in the Senate from Walsh County, said it appears that the problems before the 1957 Legislature are very similar to the problems when he served and that is finances.

While in the Senate, Morgan spent considerable time on the Appropriations Committee, which he headed several times.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan are leaving Bismarck Sunday to spend some time in California.

Franklin Page, Hamilton banker who served both in the House and the Senate from Pembina County over a long period of time, told the Senate that it appears to be a good time to start reducing taxes and spending, instead of increasing taxes to meet the demand for more money.

ARDENT SUPPORTER: Mrs. William (Marjorie) Daner of Bismarck is shown here during the 1960 Republican convention pinning a "C. P. Dahl for Governor" button on her father, C. P. Dahl. He was endorsed at the convention for governor.

The names of the chief participants in North Dakota's governorship contest give the campaign a rhythmic take from the well-known Broadway musical "Guys and Dolls." A family is apt, too, because the "dolls" — Mrs. Guy and Mrs. Dahl — are accompanying their husbands wherever they go. The state editor Gifford Herron interviewed the two candidates to give our readers a close look at the man who is taking his family into the new governor's mansion next January.

He was the ROC's first endorsee for lieutenant governor and he won that office for the first time in the 1944 election.

He was re-elected lieutenant governor in 1946, 1948, 1952, 1954 and again in 1958, never losing an election for that office.

In 1950, Dahl was elected to the state Senate again from Griggs-Steele, but resigned that office in 1952 after receiving the Republican nomination over Ray Schnell of Dickinson for lieutenant governor.

* * *

Dahl's greatest political disappointment came at the 1956 Republican convention when he was defeated for the GOP endorsement for governor by John E. Davis, who was elected that year to his first term as governor.

Dahl said he felt he should have received that endorsement but "I have always subscribed to the policies of the Republican party and didn't deviate from them," he said.

He sat out the 1956 election but in 1958, after the GOP convention failed to recognize him, he filed in the primary without endorsement and defeated Orville Hagen of Arnegard, the GOP endorsee, for the Republican nomination as lieutenant governor.

Incidentally, Hagen won the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor this year without convention endorsement and is Dahl's running mate in the Nov. 8 election.

Dahl places his 1958 primary victory for the lieutenant governor's nomination as probably his outstanding accomplishment in his political career. He said the Republican party swung in to give him good support in the 1958 fall election.

"My greatest thrill in politics," says Dahl with a smile, "came at the 1960 Republican convention when I was endorsed by acclamation. I am very grateful to the party for this honor."

Dahl recalls that he was defeated for two different state offices in 1942.

In the primary, he was defeated for the Republican nomination for secretary of state.

That fall, with Democrat John Moses seeking re-election as governor, Dahl ran

Republicans' Well Known 'C. P.' Active In 16th Statewide Campaign

By GIFFORD HERRON

C. P. Dahl has had many triumphs in the North Dakota political arena but he also has had some keen disappointments.

As the 68-year-old, white haired, jovial Cooperstown resident serves out his sixth term as North Dakota's lieutenant governor, he is in the midst of a campaign as the Republican nominee for governor.

"C. P.," as he is known to his wide acquaintanceship over North Dakota, thoroughly enjoys reminiscing about the more turbulent days in North Dakota politics, the parts he has played in various political organizations and about the days he has spent presiding over six sessions of the North Dakota Senate as lieutenant governor, days he calls "my most enjoyable" despite several rather difficult sessions.

But he doesn't have much time for that now. He and Mrs. Dahl are constantly on the move in his campaign for the governorship, the 16th statewide campaign in which Dahl has participated as a candidate for state office.

This is the first time that Mrs. Dahl has been his constant companion in a statewide campaign and both say they enjoy the campaign trail renewing old acquaintances and making new ones.

"Mrs. Dahl is a tremendous help in his campaign, especially in meeting women," Dahl said.

* * *

Looking back on some 20 years of being connected with state government as lieutenant governor and as a former state senator from the 16th District, Griggs and Steele counties, Dahl said:

"I feel that I have had some experience to qualify me for governor."

Dahl expresses confidence in his cur-

Some of his Cooperstown neighbors echo that confidence, despite the fact that Guy outpolled Dahl in the June primary election in Dahl's home county of Griggs 1,007 to 995. The other Republican candidate, Orris G. Nordhougen, received 97 votes in Griggs.

G. J. Frigaard, editor of the Griggs County Sentinel-Courier, said Dahl has strong support in Cooperstown but that Guy is stronger among the farmers.

Among Cooperstown residents who are convinced that Dahl will be the next governor are Al Loder, farm machine dealer; H. G. Hammer, hardware store owner, and C. J. Sutter, a retired carpenter who spent 13 years as Cooperstown police chief.

Dahl's interest in North Dakota politics dates back to 1916 when the Nonpartisan League was founded. He was working in a general store in the little Griggs County town of Jessie at the time.

He recalls that in the fall of 1920 he spent a couple of months working with the late A. C. Townley, father of the Nonpartisan League, as an organizer in Nebraska. Illness in the family cut that job short and Dahl returned to Jessie.

He maintained an active interest in the NPL until 1934, when the late William Langer, then governor and later U. S. senator, became involved in trouble with the federal government.

Dahl was one of a group of anti-Langerites who pulled away from the Nonpartisan League and formed the rather short-lived Progressive Republicans.

In 1938, running as a Progressive Republican, Dahl was elected to the state Senate from Griggs-Steele.

"That was one of my great fulfillments in politics, being elected senator on an anti-Langer ticket when Langer was so strong in this area," Dahl said.

and Dahls

The names of the chief participants in North Dakota's governorship contest give the campaign a rhythmic take off on the well-known Broadway musical "Guys and Dolls." And the title is apt, too, because the "dolls" — Mrs. Guy and Mrs. Dahl — are accompanying their husbands wherever they go. The Forum's state editor Gifford Herron interviewed the two contenders to give our readers a close look at the man who'll move his family into the new governor's mansion next January.

He was the ROC's first endorsee for lieutenant governor and he won that office for the first time in the 1944 election.

He was re-elected lieutenant governor in 1946, 1948, 1952, 1954 and again in 1958, never losing an election for that office.

In 1950, Dahl was elected to the state Senate again from Griggs-Steele, but resigned that office in 1952 after receiving the Republican nomination over Ray Schnell of Dickinson for lieutenant governor.

Dahl's greatest political disappointment came at the 1956 Republican convention when he was defeated for the GOP endorsement for governor by John E. Davis, who was elected that year to his first term as governor.

Dahl said he felt he should have received that endorsement but "I have always subscribed to the policies of the Republican party and didn't deviate from them," he said.

He sat out the 1956 election but in 1958, after the GOP convention failed to recognize him, he filed in the primary without endorsement and defeated Orville Hagen of Arnegard, the GOP endorsee, for the Republican nomination as lieutenant governor.

Incidentally, Hagen won the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor this year without convention endorsement and is Dahl's running mate in the Nov. 8 election.

Dahl places his 1958 primary victory for the lieutenant governor's nomination as probably his outstanding accomplishment in his political career. He said the Republican party swung in to give him good support in the 1958 fall election.

"My greatest thrill in politics," says Dahl with a smile, "came at the 1960 Rehas had many triumphs in a political arena but he has known disappointments. The 67-year-old, white haired, Bismarck resident serves out his second term as North Dakota's lieutenant governor in the midst of a campaign for a Republican nominee for governor.

Dahl is known to his wide audience over North Dakota, often reminiscing about the days in North Dakota where he has played in various organizations and about the time he spent presiding over six sessions of the North Dakota Senate as lieutenant governor. He calls "my most difficult days" several rather difficult

He has much time for his wife and Mrs. Dahl are convinced they will move in his campaign for the 16th statewide campaign. Dahl has participated as a candidate for the office.

Some of his Cooperstown neighbors echo that confidence, despite the fact that Guy outpolled Dahl in the June primary election in Dahl's home county of Griggs 1,007 to 995. The other Republican candidate, Orris G. Nordhousen, received 97 votes in Griggs.

Today the same two Dahls are on the same Republican ticket—C. P. for governor, Math for re-election as commissioner of agriculture and labor.

C. P. chuckled as he looked back to the 1942 November election campaign.

"You know, Bill Lemke (the late U. S. Rep. William Lemke) and I spoke at a rally at Amidon to an audience of three people," Dahl said. "But we had some good crowds at other places."

Dahl's roughest sledding while presiding over the North Dakota Senate came in the 1953 and 1955 sessions, when a coalition of Leaguers, Democrats and independent Republicans held a bare majority over the ROC.

The Senate majority, engineered by the late Sen. Carroll Day of Grand Forks, kept things humming in the Senate, with Dahl, a member of the ROC, often times being on the receiving end of a coalition maneuver.

At the start of the 1955 session, the coalition used its strength to not recognize Dahl as the chairman of the Senate Committee on Committees as provided under Senate rules.

"My training as an auctioneer certainly came in handy in those sessions trying to shout them down," said Dahl, who cried his first auction sale in 1918.

"But as I look back on those sessions, as rough as they were at times, I get many a laugh now," he added.

Parliamentarywise, Dahl had to be on his toes more than usual in those sessions. He has been considered one of the top parliamentarians in the legislature.

And it was an incident in the state Senate during his first session in 1939 that pointed out to him the need to know parliamentary procedure.

"I was a member of the safety committee and, being a new senator, I just had to introduce a bill," Dahl recalls. "So I introduced a firecracker safety bill.

"It passed the Senate by a big vote but I didn't know until later that the intention was to kill the bill in the House.

"Seeing that it didn't have any trouble in the Senate, I thought I'd better go all the way so I moved for a clincher motion."

If a clincher motion is approved, it takes a two-thirds vote to reconsider a measure.

"But the Senate was having fun at the expense of a freshman," said Dahl. "The clincher motion was defeated. Then a senator moved to reconsider the firecracker bill. That carried and then the bill was referred back to my committee.

"It all happened so fast I didn't know what was going on and that's when I began studying Roberts Rules of Order."

Dahl said the Senate again passed his firecracker bill but it was killed in the House. But a later legislature did pass a bill similar to the one he presented, he said.

Dahl is a native of Wisconsin, being born at York March 22, 1892, the son of a farm couple. He left York in 1910 and studied two years at a Winona, Minn., business college. He went to Jessie, 12 miles northwest of Cooperstown, in 1912 a time, then went to Carpio, N. D., where he worked a year in a hardware store. He returned to the Jessie vicinity, worked in a general store and on farms for several years.

On Dec. 28, 1922, he married Ovidia Anderson of Jessie, whose father, the late Ole L. Anderson, had served one session in the North Dakota House in 1921.

In 1925, Mrs. Dahl was named postmaster at Jessie and the Post Office was operated in conjunction with the Dahls' general store.

Dahl had been farming on land he rented but later purchased. He owns 700 acres of land in the Jessie vicinity which he has leased out.

The Dahls sold the store at Jessie in 1948, moving to Cooperstown where Mrs. Dahl worked in the Post Office until retiring in 1958.

They have two sons and a daughter, Dr. Phillip Dahl of Bismarck, part owner in the Missouri Valley Clinic; Robert, at home and employed by the North Dakota Highway Department, and Mrs. William (Marjorie) Daner, wife of a Bismarck attorney who is a partner in the law firm of Lord, Ulmer, Bair and Daner of Mandan and Bismarck.

* * *

Dahl also has been a grain buyer for several elevator firms and in 1946 served as auditor along the Rugby-Souris branch line of the Great Northern Railway for the Farmers Union Grain Terminal Association elevators.

He is a voting member of the International Peace Garden, having been appointed to that post in 1945 by the former Gov. Fred G. Aandahl.

He is a member of the American Lutheran Church, the Masonic Lodge, the Shrine and the Knights of Pythias.

In the field of politics, Dahl has served as a Republican precinct committeeman, was chairman and secretary of the Griggs County Republicans and he has served on the state GOP executive committee.

Wives Join Candidates

By DORIS EASTMAN
Forum Women's Editor

The husband and wife team becoming a familiar part of the political scene these days. More and more, wives of candidates are expected to follow their husbands on campaign trails.

From the national headquarters of the two major political parties have come stories of candidates' wives sharing the spotlight in varying degrees, with their husbands. Often, they go their separate ways so that more people can be met. Usually, the wives avoid the political field, but when pressed, most of them can answer questions with much the same composure as their husbands.

In North Dakota, Mrs. C. P. Dahl and Mrs. William L. Guy, wives of the Republican and Democratic candidates for governor, have been adjusting their lives to the schedules of the campaign. They've been attending just about every rally, coffee party and banquet their husbands have been invited to attend.

They've met hundreds of people, consumed coffee and sweets, sat on stages listening to speeches of their husbands and other candidates. These last few weeks of the campaign will see them doing more of the same. So much so, that they will seldom be in their homes more than overnight until election day.

In September Gifford Herron, Forum state editor, and I visited the Guys and the Dahls in their homes. While Herron and the gubernatorial candidates discussed politics, the wives and I talked about their interests outside the realm of politics and the adjustments in the homes made necessary by their role in the campaign.

Both agreed that one of the chief reasons folks are so interested in the wives of the gubernatorial candidates is that they want to see the woman who will be in charge of the governor's mansion in Bismarck after Jan. 1.

Mrs. John E. Davis, whose husband leaves the governor's office in January, is the only governor's wife to live in the new mansion, so far. It was completed last spring.

When we arrived at the Dahl home in Cooperstown one sunny Saturday afternoon we came just about 15 minutes after Lt. Gov. and Mrs. C. P. Dahl had driven in from Williston.

There, Mr. Dahl had attended eight coffee parties. Mrs. Dahl had flown from Bismarck to join him for the afternoon series of coffees and a dinner and rally that followed.

It was praise from an expert when she said, "Those folks did a wonderful job of organizing and timing the parties."

Coffee and politics have been a part of Mrs. Dahl's life since she was a child.

"My father was interested in politics and mother always saw to it that there was plenty of coffee around when men came to the house to talk to him," Mrs. Dahl recalls.

While, at the moment, Mrs. Dahl has put aside most of her other interests to work with her husband in the campaign, she has a record of service in organizations which goes back to the time she was a teacher before her marriage.

"Vid," which is the shortened version of Mrs. Dahl's name, "Ovidia," taught in a rural school near Jessie where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Anderson, had moved when she was two. She was a director on the Tyrol township school board, which includes Jessie, from 1934 until 1948 when she resigned because the Dahls were moving to Cooperstown. She served as the board's chairman for several years.

She also served as president of the Griggs County School Officers Association from 1940 to 1947.

Part of that time she was operating a general store and working as postmaster in Jessie while her husband took care of their farm and worked at an elevator.

She is a Past Matron of Northern Lights Chapter 39, Order of Eastern Star and is a member and past president of the Past Matrons Club.

Her PEO Chapter in Cooperstown marks its 25th anniversary in May. Last year as part of the programs at PEO reported on the 1959 session of the North Dakota legislature.

"I gave the highlights of my legislative and social life which goes on a capital during the sessions when women were particularly interested in legislation affecting education."

Combination To Mrs. Dahl

There is a Republican Women's Federated Club in Coopers-town which she says is very active.

As she served coffee, which incidentally, Mr. Dahl had made while we were talking in the living room, she apologized for not having anything to serve with it.

"I don't have much time for it these days, but I love to bake, especially the Scandinavian pastries.

In the kitchen were several jars of chokecherry syrup. When I asked her when she had time to do that, she explained, "My neighbor heard me say that I didn't have time to get out and get chokecherries, so she fixed some for me, people are so nice!"

Another thing Mrs. Dahl doesn't have much time for these days is caring for her house plants. She has grapevines and African violets growing in the deep window sill in the dining room. One had climbed up to the ceiling and started a journey across, between the time the Dahls left and when they came back.

She has a woman come in frequently to check on the plants and clean the house.

Each room bears some example of Mrs. Dahl's interest in antiques. She began collecting dishes because, "I've always loved good china," and has expanded her interest to furniture.

She laughed when I asked her if Mr. Dahl, who does some auctioneering, was any help in her antique collecting.

"I'm afraid not. In fact, I've lost out on several pieces I've meant to bid on because he held up the article and said 'this is worthwhile, my wife wants it' so the bid went up higher than I wanted to pay."

But, on the other hand, one of her most treasured antiques is the spinning wheel which Mr. Dahl's mother brought over from Norway over 100 years ago. It still has the wool she spun on it. Mrs. Dahl keeps a careful eye on the wood to avoid devastation from moths.

In a corner of the dining room she has a large cupboard filled with dishes. We had some interesting moments looking over the collection and tapping the sides of the heavy cutglass bowls which gave off the musical sounds only those heavy pieces can give.

Her love of antiques is one of her reasons for enjoying the times she visited the old governors mansion in Bismarck. Several of the pieces from the old mansion have been refinished and are being used in the new mansion, but there is a wealth of antiques stored somewhere, she says.

The necessary freshening up between rallies hasn't been too much of a problem for Mrs. Dahl. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Daner, and their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Phillip Dahl, all live in Bismarck. So if the Dahls are in that part of the state they have a place to stop and also the fun of seeing their six grandchildren. The Daners have three children and the Dahls have three. The Dahls' other son, Robert, is at home in Coopers-town. During legislative sessions Mr. Dahl keeps a hotel room in Bismarck.

If the Dahls move into the governor's mansion in January, Mrs. Dahl will not be moving into a strange house. She has assisted other governors' wives often during the time her husband has been lieutenant governor and when her husband has been acting governor, has been official hostess.

A PORTION of her collection of dishes is kept by Mrs. Dahl in this cupboard in the dining room of the Dahl home. She is holding one of the three heavy cutglass bowls in her collection.

Miss Violet Dahl Bride Of Walsvik

The wedding of Violet Dahl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Dahl of Cooperstown, N. D., and Thilford Walsvik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ida Walsvik of Hatton, N. D., took place recently at a ceremony in the Trinity Lutheran Church of Cooperstown.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Clifford Dahl. Her attendants were Arla Mae Larson, Mrs. Kenneth Dahl and Mrs. Gerald Dahl. The bride wore white marquisette and lace, Miss Larson blue and the bridesmaids yellow. Linda Sanda and Janice Hannestad were the flower girls.

Parnell Ostmo was the best man. Ushers were Norman Dahl, Duane Bjerke and Ronald Dahl.

Mrs. Selmer Quam played the wedding marches and accompanied the soloist, Luther Bjerke of Hatton.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to the Black Hills, the couple will be at home on the bridegroom's farm near Hatton.

Draft Board Chairman Resigns In Griggs

COOPERSTOWN, N. D. — The chairman of the Griggs County Selective Service Board, George H. Johnston of Cooperstown, resigned after serving since the board was established in 1948.

Thomas Swingen of rural Cooperstown was named acting chairman. Other members of the board are Perry Haaland, Cooperstown; Frank Billing, Sutton, and Bruce LaPlant, Binford.

Moorhead Man's Mother Dies At 63

Mrs. Hans Dramstad, 63, of Cooperstown, N. D., mother of Edwin Dramstad, 222 Fourth St. S., Moorhead, died late Thursday in a hospital at Cooperstown.

The funeral will be at 2 Monday in Mabel Lutheran Church of Sutton, N. D., the Rev. C. M. Rasmussen officiating. Quam Funeral Home of Cooperstown is in charge.

Mrs. Dramstad, the former Bergina Hagen, was born at Biri, Norway, April 13, 1889, and came to the U. S. in July, 1908, settling at Cooperstown. She was married to Mr. Dramstad of Binford, N. D., at Cooperstown Dec. 3, 1910. They farmed in the Sutton community until 1949 when they moved to Cooperstown.

Besides her husband and the Moorhead son she leaves five other sons, Martin, Bjarne and Harry of Binford, Albert of Saco, Mont., and Sigurd of La Harpe, Ill.; two daughters, Mrs. Oscar (Esther) Lundeen, Cooperstown, and Mrs. Darold (Evelyn) Anderson, Sutton; a sister, Mrs. Bertha Larson, Deer Lodge, Mont., and 18 grandchildren.

Sogn-Dramstad Vows Spoken

Miss Sylvia Sogn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Iver Sogn of Barnesville, Minn., and Edwin E. Dramstad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Dramstad of Cooperstown, N. D., were married at a ceremony in the Little Bethany Lutheran Church at Rothsay, Minn. Rev. O. B. Nilsen officiated.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Darold Anderson, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Dia Ann Juven. Carol Dramstad was flower girl. James Dramstad was ring-bearer.

Bjarnie Dramstad attended his brother. Kenneth Sogn, brother of the bride, was groomsman. Darold Anderson and Carol Juven ushered.

The reception was held in the church parlors.

Mr. and Mrs. Dramstad went to the Wisconsin Dells for their wedding trip and will be at home at 222 Fourth St. S., Moorhead.

A surprise party was held at the John Rose home Friday evening, it being the 29th wedding anniversary of John and Sue the next day. A beautiful wedding cake and lunch was brought along by the surprisers. Son Jack Rose, stationed at White Sands, New Mexico, called his folks Sunday, wishing them happy anniversary and the family enjoyed a good talk with him. He expects to get a furlough around Christmas time and then too in about 3 months to be home again for good.

C. P. Dahl as Senator and Lieutenant Governor Has Fine Record of Service

C. P. Dahl of Cooperstown, R. O.C. candidate for lieutenant governor, has an excellent record as public servant in our state. His fairness toward all alike as presiding officer of the senate and his efficient work as chairman of the senate appropriations committee in the 1951 session proved that he is a most capable public official.

As one of the original founders of the R.O.C., he has stood solidly behind good government activities. At the Valley City R.O.C. opening, he said:

"Why do we have an R.O.C. organization within the republican party in North Dakota? Because a group of men and women have joined together to promote one common purpose, that purpose is to elect men and women to public office who have respect for constitutional law and regard public office as a public trust and not havens for political hangers-ons. Men and women who have pledged themselves to conduct the business of your state government to the best interest of the tax-payer without curtailing proper service in the departments under their supervision, always mindful of the welfare of our state institutions and those who become patients thereof. This is the kind of government North Dakota has enjoyed for the last decade, this is why Fred G. Aandahl is regarded as North Dakota's number one (1) citizen today."

C. P. Dahl has been a resident of North Dakota for 40 years. He is a farmer and auctioneer and has served the state the last 13 years as State Senator from the 16th district also as Lieutenant Governor three terms. He was re-elected to the state senate in 1950 and served as chairman of the senate appropriations committee during the 1951 session. He is a member of the state budget board.

To give Gov. Norman Brunsdale support to carry out R.O.C.'s objective of good government, it is highly important to elect C. P. Dahl lieutenant governor.

Duea-Lillo Vows Spoken At Sharon

Wedding vows were spoken Saturday afternoon in the Trinity Lutheran Church at Sharon, N. D., by Miss Ruth Eloise Duea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Duea of Sharon, and Robert L. Lillo, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Lillo, 611 6th St. S., Moorhead. The Rev. Ralph Johnshoy officiated at the service spoken in a setting of palms, fern and summer garden flowers. Mrs. L. A. Benson of Los Angeles, aunt of the bride, played the nuptial music. Philip and Floyd Overby of Finley, N. D., twin cousins of the bride, and Mrs. O. R. Overby of Northfield, Minn., aunt of the bride, were soloists.

The bride wore a gown of rose point lace and tulle over white satin. A lace cap embroidered in seed pearls held her illusion net veil. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis centered with a white orchid. She was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Bonnie Westby of Houston, Minn., was maid of honor and Mrs. Donald Hanson of Fargo and Mrs. Ardean Nelson of Sharon, bridesmaids. They wore ice-blue gowns, carried bouquets of pink flowers and wore matching floral wreaths on their hair.

James Lillo of Moorhead attended his brother. Leon Simon of Moorhead and Dr. John Simonstad of Osceola, Wis., ushered.

The reception was in the church parlors. Mrs. R. C. Duea of Sharon and Mrs. Ed Alberg of Buffalo, Minn., poured. Mrs. M. E. Ellingson and Mrs. M. W. Duncan, both of Sharon, were hostesses.

The wedding cake was cut by Mrs. F. E. Kloster and Miss Esther Olson, both of Sharon. Mrs. R. H. Loucks of Winona, Minn., had the guest book. Mrs. John Kloster of Grand Forks, N. D., and Mrs. Parnell Ostmo of Sharon were at the gift table.

The bridal couple will be at home at Minneapolis after July 1. He will intern in surgery in the University of Minnesota Hospital.

Mrs. Duncan Of Sharon Dies

Mrs. P. T. Duncan, 94, died Friday at a Sharon hospital. She was the mother of Mrs. V. E. (Charlotte) Estenson of 911 Eighth St. N., 1858, at Fox Lake, Wis. She was married to Mr. Duncan March 17, 1886, at Oshkosh, Wis. They homesteaded near Sharon and moved into Sharon in 1902. Mr. Duncan died in 1936.

Surviving are a son, Miles, president of the First State Bank of Sharon, and two other daughters, Mrs. J. A. (Stella) Jacobson of Sharon and Mrs. C. E. (Eva) Harmon of Minneapolis.

Service will be at 2 Monday in the Sharon Presbyterian Church, the Rev. James Henderson of Cooperstown officiating. Burial will be in the Sharon Cemetery. Boe Funeral Home of Finley is in charge.

Mrs. Dahlin Dies In Fargo At 81

Mrs. Andrew (Mary) Dahlin, 81, former resident of Binford, N. D., died Tuesday in a Fargo hospital.

Since the death, Feb. 17, 1942, of her husband, she had resided with two daughters, Esther and Olga Dahlin, at 304 Fifteenth Ave. S.

The body has been taken to the Quam Funeral Home at Cooperstown, N. D., for service at a time to be set.

Mrs. Dahlin, the former Mary Anna Nelson, was born at Decorah, Ia., May 20, 1871, and came to Cooperstown, Dakota Territory in 1881 with an uncle. She was married to Mr. Dahlin there in 1895. They farmed in the Binford community until Mr. Dahlin's death.

She leaves four sons, Ernest of 402 Eighth Ave. S., Leonard and Alton of Binford, and Leo of Long Beach, Calif.; five other daughters, Ruth of Sioux Falls, S. D., Mrs. N. J. can party, which I have always supported."

On the eve of the convention opening in Bismarck, Dahl told this writer that he was interested in a convention endorsement for the U. S. House of Representatives, for governor or for lieutenant governor.

He added at that time: "I'm not taking myself out of the possibility of being a candidate on the Republican ticket regardless of what the convention does."

He didn't elaborate on that statement at the time.

Dahl said a group of Cooperstown residents, spearheaded by Harold Burk, have been anxious to form a Dahl-for-Lieutenant Governor Club.

He said he gave them the go-ahead Saturday.

Langer's cancellation of his scheduled Grand Forks appearance was the second time he has cancelled North Dakota engagements within a month since he said he would be a candidate for the GOP nomination for re-election against the convention endorsee for the U. S. Senate, Lt. Gov. Clyde Duffy of Devils Lake.

Langer wired his Grand Forks campaign headquarters that he was needed in Washington for important labor votes. The Senate was in session Saturday instead of taking its usual weekend recess.

Langer said in his telegram to Mrs. Cecil Williams that he hopes to be in North Dakota and probably Grand Forks for several days late this week. Mrs. Williams has opened a Grand Forks headquarters for Langer's campaign.

She said an active campaign for Langer will be started immediately.

Earlier, Langer had announced he would open his campaign at Michigan, N. D., on April 8, followed by three more North Dakota talks.

He cancelled those when Mrs. Langer entered a hospital for surgery. She has returned to her Washington home.

R.O.C. Candidate For LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

C. P. DAHL

C. P. Dahl of Cooperstown, R.O.C. candidate for lieutenant governor, has an excellent record as public servant in our state. His fairness toward all alike as presiding officer of the senate and his efficient work as chairman of the senate appropriations committee in the 1951 session proved that he is a most capable public official.

As one of the original founders of the R.O.C., he has stood solidly behind good government activities. At the Valley City R.O.C. opening, he said:

The report on the push for Barry to seek a congressional nomination came in an article in the Williston Plains Reporter, Williston weekly newspaper, written by its publisher, W. E. Shemorry.

Shemorry wrote: "Mr. Barry's backing comes from a group of young men in North Dakota who know his political philosophy is close to that of Congressman Usher L. Their action will come as a surprise to Barry, who was not consulted in advance of the move to draft him."

Barry has served as Burdick's administrative assistant since 1950. He is a Williston native and a graduate of the University of North Dakota.

Barry was one of six stockholders, including Shemorry, who aided in establishing and incorporating the Williston Plains Reporter in 1954.

The GOP convention endorsees for the two congressional spots are Don Short of Medora and Orris Nordhogen of Leeds.

State Treasurer Albert Jacobson announced a week ago he intends to seek the GOP nomination for Congress.

Should Barry and Byerly file, there would be at least a five-way race for the two congressional seats now held by Reps. Otto Krueger and Burdick, neither of whom are seeking re-election.

GOP Leads For Other State Posts

Republicans, although holding leads, were in a nip and tuck battle for votes in most races for North Dakota state offices below that of governor.

C. P. Dahl of Cooperstown was elected lieutenant governor, incomplete returns showed. Dahl, a Republican who had held the post before, defeated Lavern Schoeder of Adams County.

In other races, Republicans were beginning to increase their margins, and were firming up their leads by 3:15 a.m., with about one-half of the precincts in.

The commissioner of agriculture and labor contest indicated another probable Republican victory.

With 817 precincts in, incumbent Math Dahl had 40,116 votes and James J. Maher, Sioux County rancher, had 29,002.

C. P. Dahl of Cooperstown, the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, a post he had held previously, had polled 48,042 votes and Lavern Schoeder of Adams County had 41,545, with 1,212 precincts reported.

Another Republican candidate, incumbent Ernest D. Nelson, had a more than 4,000-vote lead over Con Bymers of Ellendale in the race for public service commissioner.

When 44 precincts had reported, Bymers held a two to one lead.

The earliest returns had been misleading because the majority were from Williams County, where Democrats were showing a strong pulling power from top to bottom of the ticket.

Republicans sought re-election for all but two of the state offices below governor. They were lieutenant governor and treasurer.

On the ballot for treasurer were deputy treasurer John R. Erickson, Republican candidate, and Mrs. Ray Thompson of Walcott, the Democratic candidate, and widow of former state treasurer Ray Thompson. They were seeking the office held by the late Albert Jacobson, who died late last month. Jacobson was not a candidate for re-election. M. J. Baumgartner, a member of the staff of the treasurer's office, was appointed treasurer to complete the term.

In Richland, Mrs. Thompson's home county, she trailed Erickson by 127 votes, with 46 of 55 precincts reported.

The other candidates below governor were:

Ben Meier of Napoleon, Republican seeking a third term and opposed by Albert Heide, Crosby, former Divide County treasurer.

A. J. Jensen, Republican candidate seeking his fifth term as insurance commissioner against Democrat Wallace Wolsky, Nome.

Math Dahl, commissioner of agriculture and labor who seeks his 11th term. His Democratic opponent was James J. Maher, Sioux County farmer.

C. P. Dahl does not need any introduction to the people of North Dakota. His record as a state senator and former Lieutenant Governor speaks for itself.

C. P. Dahl is an outstanding presiding officer. His fairness in parliamentary decisions has been vouched for by Leaguers as well as R.O.C. Republicans and Democrats alike.

Forty years a resident of North Dakota, twenty-five years of business experience, an auctioneer and farmer, he owns and oversees a seven hundred acre farm. Married and has a family of three children, Philip Owen, a Doctor of Medicine, who will be aligned with the Missouri Valley clinic at Bismarck after July 1st this year; Marjorie, living at South Bend, Indiana, and Robert at home.

Just below the office of governor on the ballot appears that of lieutenant governor, and a great deal of importance attaches to the selection of the man to fill this office. At least four times in the state's history a lieutenant governor has been called upon to fill the post of governor in North Dakota, thru the death or disqualification of the governor. With approximately 40 of Cass County's 130 precincts in, Republicans were ahead in all the races below governor.

The number of precincts reported for the offices varied somewhat but Republican candidates had approximately 115 to 225 precincts and about 3,000 votes reported.

Legislative Session Produces Little New Political Timber

By GIFFORD HERRON
State Editor

There wasn't much action or talk during the 1959 Legislature to create speculation as to which legislator may be a candidate for what office in 1960, except possibly a statement by Lt. Gov. C. P. Dahl shortly before the session adjourned.

Herron

During the closing hours of the session, Dahl, president of the Senate, addressed the senators. His remarks, printed in the Senate Journal, the official record, were in part:

"When the gavel falls to indicate that the motion to adjourn this 36th legislative session for the State of North Dakota sine die, it will end my career as presiding officer of the Senate, a position I have enjoyed very much and an honor that has been bestowed upon me by the electorate of this great state six times."

Some believed the announcement meant that the veteran political figure, who will be 67 next Sunday, was retiring from political life.

Others believed it was Dahl's way of announcing his candidacy for governor in 1960.

It's certainly no secret that Dahl would like to be governor of North Dakota. He tried for the Republican endorsement for governor in 1956 but was defeated in the convention by Gov. John E. Davis.

"It isn't either one of those reasons," said Dahl when asked what he meant in his statement. He declined to elaborate much on what he did mean.

A lot can happen in the next year so Dahl says it's too early for any announcement for candidacy.

Asked if he would accept a convention endorsement for governor, Dahl said:

"I'm not too concerned about conventions."

That was pretty well demonstrated last year. Coming out without a GOP convention endorsement, Dahl easily defeated the endorsed candidate for lieutenant governor, Orville Hagen of Arnegard, in the primary.

As for retirement, Dahl chuckled and said, "I don't think I'll ever be inactive in North Dakota politics as long as I'm on my feet."

Which brings up the argument of why should Dahl be any different from most others who have led active political lives. They just don't have a tendency to quit.

And the name Dahl seems to be a magic one to draw North Dakota votes.

Besides his six terms as lieutenant governor and an unsuccessful candidacy for the GOP gubernatorial endorsement in 1956, Dahl has also served as state senator from Griggs-Steele, he was a candidate for commissioner of agriculture and labor and he was one of the wheel horses in the days of the Republican Organizing Committee.

Local Ladies Attend Funeral Of Sister

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Dahl and Mrs. Leonard Larson went to Fargo on Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Vasfaret. From there they accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Dean Bruns and Mrs. Milo Vasfaret to Menomonie, Wisconsin, to attend the funeral on Saturday of Mrs. Charles Ordemann, sister of Mrs. Larson and Mrs. Dahl.

Mr. and Mrs. Vasfaret remained at the Milo Vasfaret home to take care of the children.

Mrs. Ordemann entered the Memorial hospital in Menomonie December 26. Mrs. Larson and Mrs. Dahl were called to her bedside January 6 and spent a week. She was thought to be improving, but on February 14 she suffered a stroke and died February 17.

Mrs. Ordemann had visited her sisters here many times. Others who attended the funeral were her brother Mr. Russell Plummer, and his wife; and a nephew, Darwin Dahl of Chicago, Ill., and his wife.

On their way home Sunday the people from here visited at the Robert Bruns home in Minneapolis.

Albert Dahl Dies At 77

COOPERSTOWN, N. D. — Albert Dahl, 77, retired Cooperstown area farmer, died Wednesday in a Cooperstown hospital.

The funeral will be at 1 Friday in Trinity Lutheran Church, the Rev. A. P. Tidemann officiating. Quam Funeral Home is in charge.

Born at Fergus Falls, Minn., Nov. 20, 1879, Mr. Dahl grew to manhood there and married Anna Jensen at Alexandria, Minn., Dec. 17, 1903. They came to this area in 1905. Mrs. Dahl died Jan. 10, 1940.

He leaves three sons, Duane of Seattle, Alfred of Yakima, Wash., and Selvain, in Montana; a daughter, Mrs. Jeannette Testerman, Seattle; two brothers, Conrad of Stewartville, Minn., and Manton of St. Paul, and three grandchildren.

A son, Martin R. Dahl, was killed in France June 17, 1944, while serving with the mechanized cavalry in World War II.

Dahl Released From Hospital

COOPERSTOWN, N. D. — C. P. Dahl, former North Dakota lieutenant governor and state senator and long prominent in Republican politics, was dismissed Thursday from a hospital here after being treated for a light stroke suffered Dec. 12.

Dahl, 65, said he feels "just fine" and had thrown off a slight speech difficulty that had troubled him for a few days. His physician agreed that Dahl had "come along fine."

Dahl, who said he will rest at his home here for a few days, declared he expects to take part in the 1958 political campaign.

"This won't slow me up," he asserted. "I'll be active some place." He declined, however, to elaborate on that statement.

Dahl was a bidder at the 1956 Republican state endorsing convention for its endorsement for governor. However, the convention endorsed John E. Davis, now governor.
