Iver Udgaard Dies Sunday at Lenora Township Farm

Well Known Citizen Passes Following Heart Attack at Home ¹⁹³⁵

Iver Udgaard, one of Griggs county's best known citizens, died at his farm home in Lenora township on Sunday, November 17, following a heart attack from which he had been a sufferer. About a year ago Mr. Udgaard suffered a stroke and his health has been considerably impaired since that time. Death came Sunday after about a week's illness brought on by over-exertion.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at the Masonic Temple conducted by G. B. Edmondson as master, with T. G. Thompson reading an eulogy of the departed. Burial was made in the Cooperstown cemetery.

Came Here In 1883

Mr. Udgaard was born in Lesje, Norway on October 10, 1863, and was 72 years 1 month and 7 days old at the time of his death. He came to this country at the age of 19 years, stopping in Minnesota for about a year, then coming to Mandell, located east of the present site of Cooperstown. He took employment as mail carrier and for two years carried the mail from Tower City to Lee postoffice.

In 1885 he came to Cooperstown and became associated with Knud Thompson in the machine business as salesman and bookkeeper. In 1887 he was employed by Odegaard & Thompson in the banking business and held this position until 1890. In 1904 he was elected treasurer of the county and held this position two years. Following the close of his term he left for Centralia, Wash., intending to locate there, but returned within a year and became interested in farming. He continued on the farm until 1900 when he took the position of cashier in the First National bank, serving in that capacity for ten years, leaving to again take up farming. In 1918 the family moved to Cooperstown, returning to the farm in 1924.

On June 11, 1902, he was united in marriage to Miss Gena Helling. Two children, Mildred, at present living at home, and Edwin, farming a short distance from the home place, survive, together with the sorrowed widow.

Kindred Hotel Once Key To C

Famed For Cuisine In '80s, It Will Be Razed In Spring

Special To The Fargo Forum
Valley City, N. D.—When the Kindred hotel is razed next spring to make room for a modern store, a landmark of glittering social functions and sumptuous cuisine will disappear.

Although the glory of the Kindred has been fading for years, a handful of "oldtimers" remember the days when the hotel was the key to successful balls and parties. But, condemned for a long time as unsafe, the hotel will disappear as did its partner in the heyday of the 1880s and 90s, the Opera House.

The hotel, once so famous that traveling men arranged their schedules to spend a luxurious weekend in Valley City, will be torn down by the Straus Clothing company, present owners, and replaced with a building to house the firm and another business.

Hotel Financed By Chewing Gum Magnate

Only a few oldtimers are left in Valley City to recall that the hotel building was begun in 1880 by an eastern millionaire, Thomas Adams, who founded the Adams Gum company.

Adams was attracted by stories in eastern newspapers describing large land holdings in the Valley City area. He came here to build the hotel, which was hailed as one of the most spacious and beautiful in North Dakota.

The hotel was named after Charles F. Kindred of Brainerd, Minn., who owned the land and considerable other property in and about Valley City at that time. According to the abstract held by Straus Clothing company, Kindred deeded the property to Adams on Aug. 22, 1882.

"Tracing the history of the hotel is difficult because so few records were preserved," says Lester T. Sproul, Valley City attorney who represents the Straus firm.

"Apparently Adams had a contract to purchase the property from Kindred when he began building the hotel since the deed is dated two years after building began."

According to files of the Times-Record, daily newspaper here, the grand opening was a brilliant social event with a ball in the dining room and "music by Chapman's orchestra."

But the hotel didn't pay its way, for the records show Adams lost it because of an unsatisfied mortgage for $6,000. Sold by the sheriff on a mortgage foreclosure the hotel was purchased for $6,440.82 by Annie E. Glynn on Oct. 16, 1897.

to Valley City as a young woman from Pennsylvania some time before 1897. She was married to a man by the name of Field from whom she was afterwards divorced, and then she married Glynn. After being divorced from Glynn she was married to a man by the name of Hervey, and after her divorce from him she married Lane. This marriage also resulted in divorce.

However, Mrs. Kern-Field-Glynn-Hervey-Lane did not let her marital adventures interfere with her ambition of setting the best table in North Dakota. Mrs. Glynn, as she usually was known, owned a farm on the east edge of Valley City where she maintained her own herds of livestock and poultry to supply the hotel. Gardens on the farm furnished fruits and vegetables.

Mrs. Glynn was described as a quiet, good-hearted woman who financially assisted in the education of 23 children although she had none of her own.

A shrewd business woman, she operated the hotel personally until a few years before her death on May 27, 1935, when she leased the property. She catered to traveling men and Valley City society.

Others who managed the hotel at times included Mrs. Kitty Soule and Mrs. Lois Getchell. Mrs. Getchell was a grandmother of Charles Burke of Fargo, manager of radio station KFGO. Burke has no information as to the time his grandmother managed the Kindred, but Miss Minnie Nielson of Valley City, president of the Barnes County Historical society, says it was before Mrs. Glynn acquired the property.

The hotel and the neighboring opera house were the centers of social life. On the nights of fancy balls on the third floor ballroom of the opera house, the Kindred hotel served midnight suppers for the dancers. To make hotel and ballroom more accessible a runway was built across the tops of the intervening buildings so dancers could flit from the third-floor dining room to the third-floor ballroom without descending and ascending stairways.

Fancy Social Events In Huge Dining Room

The huge dining room, long ago cut to much smaller size, was the scene of elaborate parties by the most elegant.

The once rich carpeting now is frayed and worn, with only a trace remaining of its former beauty. However, in dark recesses under stairways, the rich colors and nap of the carpet are unworn by 69 years of footsteps.

Big parlors originally connected by double doors long ago were divided into makeshift apartments.

The Kindred's companion in glory, the Opera House, has long since disappeared; its spot in Valley City now being occupied by Holiday's market.

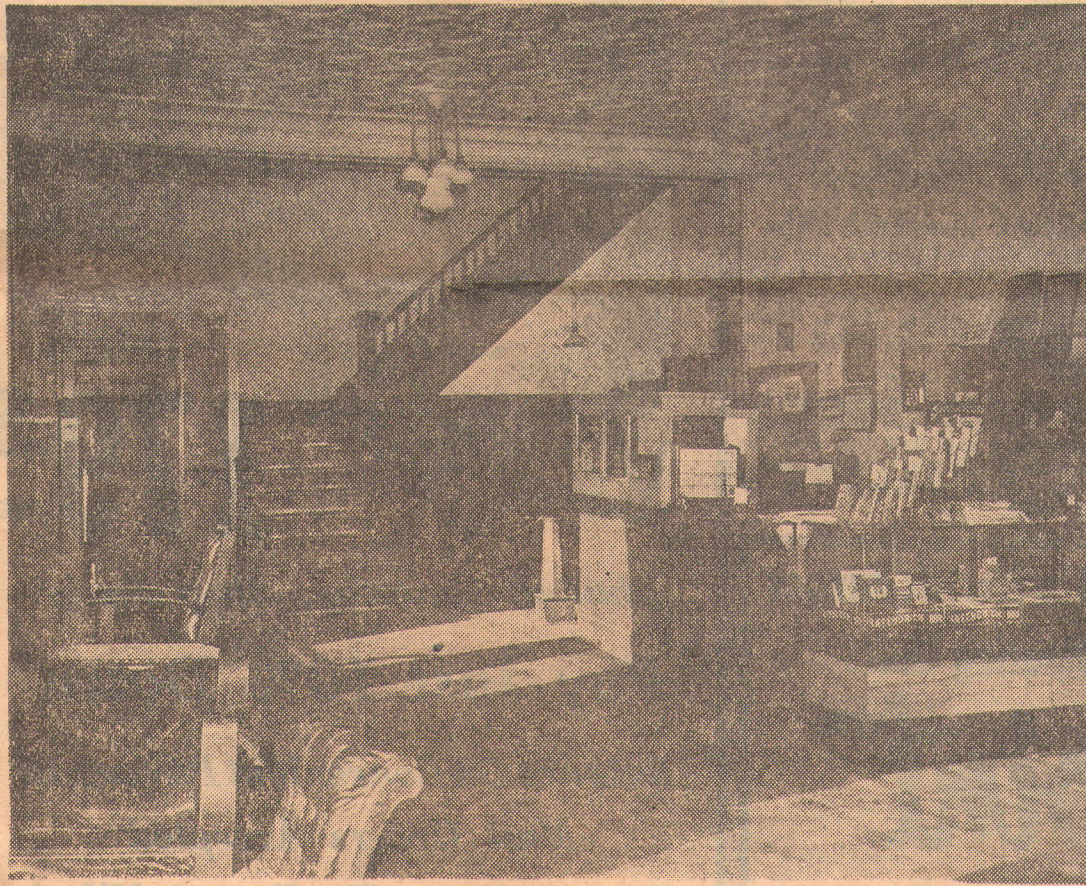

Property Sold In 1945 To Straus Company

Upon Mrs. Glynn's death in 1935 the property passed to Helen B. Walker of San Diego, Calif., who later was married to a Mr. Lewis. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis sold the hotel on Sept. 25, 1945, to the Straus Clothing company of Valley City.

The history of the hotel and that of the clothing firm are closely linked. The clothing store was established in 1882 by Adolph Sternberg, who opened Valley City's first exclusive clothing shop on a ground floor corner of the hotel.

The late M. G. Straus, whose wife was a niece of Mrs. Sternberg, operated a clothing store at Casselton. Straus purchased the Valley City store in 1908 and installed Herman Stern, an employee at Casselton, as manager. Mrs. Stern and Mrs. Straus were sisters.

Stern has headed the family corporation since 1911, retaining the Straus Clothing store name and using it also for the Fargo store which was established in 1939.

ONCE RICH AND ELABORATE, the lobby shows only traces of its former glory.

Bernhard Vogen, for twenty years a Griggs county resident, passed away at his home in Rosendal township last Friday morning at four o'clock, following two years of illness. The late weeks of his life found him very low and death was momentarily expected. Death, finally, was of merciful giving, ending intense suffering. Brights disease was the cause of his illness and his death.

His widow and three daughters survive him. The daughters are Olga, Bertha and Florence. They all have the deep sympathy of all acquaintances.

Funeral services were held at the Vogen home Sunday afternoon, Rev. Halling of Binford officiating. From miles about came friends to pay last tribute to one held high in the estimation of all. On Monday the remains were taken to Rushford, Minnesota, for burial beside his parents.

The pallbearers were: Benjamin Conant, J. D. Barclay, Ole Larson, Henry Asmus, Joe Storkson and Arthur Anson.
