

An accident which came near proving fatal to two children occurred at Red Willow lake last Sunday. The children had stepped to the side of the grade to avoid passing automobiles, when one car, coming from the south, met another and in turning out, struck the children and went off the grade into the water. One child was pinned under the front wheel and the other under the rear. Quick action by John and Peter Knapp and Col. Stanley saved the children from drowning. These gentlemen jumped into the water and exerting themselves to the very limit succeeded in raising the car sufficiently to extricate the youngsters. In the excitement, no one seemed to learn who the children are so that no information can be gotten as to their condition. The driver of the car, too, is unknown.
