up where a lew hours before all had been peace, happiness and fancied sccurity. With these terrible eruptions came sympathetic demonstrations from the sea. The overhanging clouds were so surcharged with electricity that at one time over fifteen huge waterspouts were seen. As the eruptions increased in frequency and violence, the disturbance of the waters surrounding the barren coast because more and more violent. Here the waves rushed in with terrific force up the steep, rocky incline, breaking upon the overhanging crags, and receding rapidly, leaving a lava flow cooled just at the moment when it was about to fall over the precipice, and there remaining quickly hardened by contact with the waters. The European and American quarter was first overwhelmed by rocks, mud and lava from the craters, and then the waters came up and swallowed the ruins, leaving nothing to mark the site, and causing the loss of somewhere in the neighborhood of 20 000 inhabitants and those causing the loss of somewhere in the neigh-borhood of 20,000 inhabitants and those who had tried to find a refuge there. Ban-tan, once a prosperous and flourishing native city, but practically abandoned many years ago, was entirely covered several times by the waters, and there must have been from 1,200 to 1,500 people drowned. At the last advices the eruptions were still continuing, although their violence had abated somewhat, and it is feared that the end of the disaster will show it to have been one of the most frightful ever known in the history of volcanic eruptions.

Java is an island in the Malayan archipelago, the principal seat of Dutch power in the East, and after Sumatra and Borneo, the largest in the Sunda group. It is between the Java sea and the Indian ocean. The island is 630 miles long by 30 to 35 miles broad, and has an area of 49,730 square miles. The island is traversed throughout its whole length by two chains of mountains, thickly set with volcanoes, active and exvarying from 6,000 to 12,000 feet in height.

MORE DISASTROUS THAN AT FIRST REPORTED.

LONDON, Special Cablegram, Aug. 29.—Further particulars of the great volcanic eruption in Java, which have just reached London from Batavia show the disaster to have been even more widespread and more disastrous than reported in yesterday's advices. At noon Sunday the eruptions and shocks were supposed to have reached their greatest height. But late in the afternoon and evening the violence of the disturbances suddenly increased, and the island seemed to be about to be completely buried in a mass of fire and sulphurous ashes. At the same time enormous waves began to At the same time enormous waves began to dash with great force upon the shores, coming in some places far up into the interior, and great chasms opened into the earth and threatened to engulf a large portion of the islands, people and buildings. About midnight the most frightful scene of the whole disturbance

Here and there in the lava streams were incomparable then plate-like grystals of a thousand locomotives were simultaneously letting off steam. Here and there in the laya streams were innumerable thin plate-like crystals of fedspar, arranged in trains one behind the other in the direction of the flow of the current, and feldspathic spherfeles were rapidly formed in the vitreous matter, resembling those which form in the slag of a glass furnace. One of the most singular freaks of the cruption was the carrying in the midst of the molten laya of a bed of solid ice of enormous size, which had been emitted from one of the craters, carried along by the current, and landed on the extremity on Point St. Nicholas on the northeast corner of the island. This bed of ice was surrounded by a thick envelope of sand and scoria, which are such -nonconductors of heat that a red-hot stream of laya running over it scoria, which are such -nonconductors of heat that a red-hot stream of lava running over it will not melt snow. It is supposed this ice had formed the crust of some vast subterranean lake. About 2 o'clock Monday morning the great cloud suddenly broke into small sections and quickly vanished. At the same time the most frightful rumblings were heard, and the columns of fire and smoke on the southeast corner of the island ceased to ascend, while the craters in the other parts of Java seemed to open their fiery throats still wider to let out the greatest quantities of lava, rocks, pumice and ashes yet tities of lava, rocks, pumice and ashes yet vomited out. The hissing of these became so loud as to be almost deafening, and the waves washed up on the shores to an unprecedented height. When daylight came it was seen

Victims of the Terrible Volcanic Eruption and Tidal Waves of the Island of Java.

The latest advices from Batavia, the capital of Java, show that the volcanic eruptions in that island are much more serious than at first indicated. The disturbances began on the Island of Krakatoa, in the Island of Krakatoa, in the Island of Sunda, about fifteen miles off the Coast of Java.

The first eruptions were on Saturday night. On Sunday morning the disturbances had extended beneath the waters of the sirait, and these were soon boiling and hissing violently, while great waves dashed upon the Javanese shores, and the temperature of the sea went up nearly 20 deg., even as far away from the original point of disturbance as Madura. The furious waves were lashed into mountains of foam as they came rolling in. The threatening ranks that its course was changed, and from France that its course was changed, and from France in the Indian ocean on the south had rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great sea of turbad rushed in and formed a great wave, and occasionally to continued in active sub-and there the peak of a high crater was expected for a moment by the receding of a great wave, and occasionally submit twenters. Herowish-gray smoke of a great wave, and occasionally submit rushed in and formed a great disturbance as Madura. The furious waves were lashed into mountains of foam as they came rolling in. The threatening rumblings cradually became more and more distinct, and soon the Malia Meru, the largest of the volcanoes of Java, was belching forth flames at a very alarming rate. Men, women and children rushed in terror from their tottering dwelling places, filling the air with their shricks of corror. Hundreds were unable to get out before the houses fell and were buried beneath great mass:s of rocks and mud which were piled up where a lew hours before all had been peace, happiness and fancied sccurity. With these terrible eruptions came sympathetic demonstrations from the sea. The habitants on them.

this loss has been largely increased since the last reports. The roof of the governor's house was crushed by a mass of heavy mud, and three of the retainers were killed. The town bridge was destroyed. The Diamond and Pearl bastions badly damaged, and the Bussau redoubt was destroyed. On Cayamans, Maibar and L.ons street, the principal avenues of the city, the damage is principal avenues of the city, the damage is very great. Fort Astvoi is entirely destroyed. The town of Fagget was severely shaken and only a few buildings were left standing. The aggregate loss of life from the various elements of the terrible disturbances must be tuny 75,000, but the number of those who perished can never, of course, be approximated. A violent shock occurred in the island of Sumatra, Monday forenoon, and it was feared other violent disturbances might follow. Middle Island, ten miles off the Javanese coast, and half way between the extreme points of Java and Sumatra, was almost wholly engulfed in the sea. The small Island of Singkle, probably originally only a cone blown up by an eruptive paroxysm, has entirely disappeared. It was uninhabited. It was uninhabited.

The Situation at Rochester.

Rochester, Special Telegram, Aug. 27.—
The wreeked city is begun to recover from s bewilderment, and to move in earnest to save what remains. A few houses in the track of the cyclone that were wreeked and not carried away, have been straightened, and will afford shelter against coming storms. A heavy shower passed this morning, soaking hay and grain that had not been protected. More rain is threatened to-day, and the work of replacing tin roofs and shingles is being crowded to the atmost. The rain this morning penetrated the hospital, and made the position of the watchers and injured very disagreeable. The roof hospital, and made the position of the watchers and injured very disagreeable. The roof will be put to rights before any more rain falls. The condition of the sufferers is much better than before, except in the desperate cases. Mrs. McMasters died Saturday night, and was buried Sabbath afternoon. Mr. D. Weatherbee died Monday noon. His children, who are made orphans by the storm, were with him to the last. The children that were bruised and mancled beyond recognition are in a fair way to recover. The children that were bruised and mangled beyond recognition are in a fair way to recover. The relief committee is busy distributing the gifts of clothing and food sent to their headquartors, but thus far the supply is far from sufficient. Volunteer sewing circles are busy throughout the city, making up clothing to supply temporarily those who have nothing left. The building committee met this afterno n, and will decide on some plan for providing homes for the thousand at present houseless and dependent on others for shelter. Mr. G. W. Van Dusen and Hon. R. A. Jones leave for Chicago to-day to solicit aid from the beard of trade. They will also visit Milwaukee. Firms in New York city and elsewhere are being heard from most frightful scene of the whole disturbance took place. Suddenly an enormous luminous cloud, similar to that which was seen on the Gunung Guntur, but much greater in extent, formed over the Kandang range of mountains, which skirt the southeast coast of the island. The cloud gradually increased in size until it formed a canopy of lurid red and whitish gray over a wide extent of territory. During this time the eruptions increased and streams of lava poured incessantly down the sides of the mountains into the valleys, sweeping everything before them. Here and there astream of lava would enter an arm of the Mayor Whiten of Rochester has issued the following circular letter:

Rochester, Minn., Aug. 24, 1883.—On the evening of Aug. 21 a terrific cyclone struck our city, completely destroying 135 dwellings and totally demolishing their contents. A large number of others were unroofed and otherwise damaged. In the city, nineteen persons were killed this is strictly accurate) and about 100 wounded, several of them fatally. The ruined houses were nearly all owned and occupied by mechanics and laborers, who have lost everything they had in the world except the clothing mon their persons and the maked lots. In many cases the heads of families are injured. The cyclone entered the county at its western border, and in its course destroyed the crops and buildings on about forty farms. Others lying continuous were damaged, and five persons were killed outside the city. The relief committee has a detailed list of 124 families, in the city alone, entirely destitute. We appeal to the public for aid. The leading business men of the city are all heavy losers, and cannot, therefore, do as much for the sufferers as they would wish. They have, however, contributed liberally. None of the public buildings have escaped damage. One school building is destroyed, the court house is unroofed, the churches are seriously injured, one of them—the Methodist—demolished; the elevators and warehouses are all wholly or partially in ruins. Provisions are plentiful. Money, clothing and carpenters are needed. One hundred thousand dollars expended in tools, iumber, etc., for the penniless would scarcely put them on their feet sufficiently to enable them to help themselves. All contributions are placed in the hands of a thoroughly organized committee of twenty-one citizens, and may be forwarded to the unlessigned. following circular letter:

The completion of the Northern Pacific railroad now being celebrated, makes the fourth line of railroad alread v built across the continent, and marks another era in the grand progress and development of this great country. In some respects it is the most important extending from Point Caprecein, on the south, to Negery Pafsoreang, on the north, and west to a low point covering an extent of territory about fifty miles square. In this were situated the villages of Negery and Negery Babawang. Of the people inhabiting these places and the natives scattered sparsely through the forests and on the plains none escaped a frightful death. This section of the island was not so densely populated as the other portions, and the loss of life was comparatively small, although it must have aggregated fully 15,000 souls. The entire Candang range of mountains, extending along the coast in a semi-circle for about skivy-five miles, had gone out of sight. Female Honesty Rewarded.

Not long ago a rich man died in Brussels, leaving nearly all bis fortune to a young woman who was entirely unacquainted with him. This is how it came to pass: He was a very eccentric man and set out like Diogenes in search of an honest man. His tub was an omnibus and his lantern a small coin. In the omnibus he used to take his seat every day near the conductor, and always showed himself very obliging in passing showed himself very oblighing in passing up the money of passengers and returning the change, but to the latter he always managed to add a franc or half franc. Then he would watch those to whom it came. They would count it carefully, notice the extra coin, and invariably slip it into their pockets. No one had any thought of the poor conduc-tor, whose meagre salary of three francs a day could ill support such a loss. But at last a young woman passed hers back with, "Conductor, you have given me half a franc too much." Diogenes, de-lighted, followed her home, made inquiries, and as the inquiries were satisfactory, made his will in her favor, though he never gave her warning that her half franc was going to bring her half a million.
