How He Won His Stars and the Soubriquet of "Old Chickamauga."

Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette: As we sat, one night in 1875, in the ratty old editorial rooms of the Toledo Democrat and Herald, of which Steedman was leader writer and I managing editor, I asked him for the story of Chickamauga, where he won his stars and the soldier title of Old Chickamanga, of which he was so proud. He told it as coolly as if it was a dream to him:

soldier title of Old Chickamauga, of which he was so proud. He told it as coolly as if it was a dream to him:

"Why, my boy, there wasn't much to do. I was in charge of the First division of the Reserve corps of the Army of the Cumberland, and had been stationed at Ringgold or Redhouse Bridge over the Chickamauga. My orders were explicit, to hold the bridge at all hazard, and prevent the enemy from flanking Gen. Thomas. The enemy disappeared from our front. The sound of canonnading and battle to the northward told me that the enemy had massed against our centre, and a great battle was on. From the noise of conflict I judged, and rightly, that Thomas was sorely pressed. I felt that my command was needed, and yet could not understand the absence of new orders. I waited impatiently enough from daylight till nearly noon, hoping for some word from my commanding officer. Finally I decided to risk my neck rather than see the Union army destroyed through mactivity on my part. Calling a council of officers and men, I explained the situation, read my orders, told them my decision, and that on my shoulders should fall whatever of responsibility attached to the disobedience of orders. You know the inexorable military law is to ask no questions, obey all orders, and accept consequences.' I know that if my movement was a failure, my judgment mistaken, nothing less than a court martial and death awaited me. But the battle was on, and every fibre in me said I was wanted. We burned the bridge and marched by the cannons' sound to Thomas' aid. Through corn fields, thickets, and oak woods we made a fearful tramp, for no man in the command knew the country, and our only guide was the cannons' boom. When I reported to Thomas he was in despair at the loss of the key to his position, which had just been captured by Gen. Hindman's rebelicorps. The place was indicated to me by a flash of guns and a rattle of canister on the dry leaves of the tree under which Thomas and I stood. It was a steep asceut, with a densely-peopled crescent ridi

there,' said Thomas, as the guns flashed again. 'Now you see their exact position. You must take that ridge.' My reply was: 'i'll do it.' In thirty minutes after we reached the field we were storming the rock of Chickamauga. It was an awful contest up that slope, every foot of which was planted with death.

'We went in with 7,500 men, and only 4,000 reported for duty at the next muster. We went up, up, up till we reached the summit, and planted ourselves there to stay. It was a terribly hot place, and we made the plateau a lake of blood before we drove Hindman back. I rode hack and reported to man back. I rode back and reported to Thomas. I was bloody from head to foot. He clasped my hand, and said with great emotion. Gen. Steedman, you have saved my army.' I got my stars not long afterward, and that's about all there was of it. Yes, it was a big risk I ran; but I was right, and I knew it."

As he rode to battle that day he met Gen. Granger, who said, feelingly: "Sted, old boy, it's going to be d—d hot in there. If anything should happen bave you appreciate to make should happen have you any requests to make of me?" The vein of sentiment was running deep in the questioner's heart, but the practical soldier responded in words that have

About the Stomach.
We dare say three-fourths of the disea es that prevail in the human family are directly or indirectly induced by some derangement of the stomach. The most serious ailments have their origin there. With dyspepsia the food passes indigested through the flacted vessels and many particles of deleterous matter are carried into the blood and gain lodgment often in the lungs and other great cen-ters of vitality. Hence dyspepsia favors the occurrence of consumption in persons at all predisposed to it. It is also the primary source of scrofula and other diseases of the

Besides these symptoms are bad taste in mouth, pain tness symptoms are cartastern mouth, pain in chest, shortness of breath, palpitation, headache, giddiness, coldness of extremi-ties, languor, sleeplessness and despondency. In prescribing Burdock Blood Bitters, as

In prescribing Bordock Blood Bitters as a cure for dyspepsia we desire the patient to eat regularly a reasonable quantity of good, plain food (not too hot or too cold) and to use very sparingly of tobacco (if addicted to that habit.) which is apt to exhaust the organs of salivation. Dyspepsia is a disease of the mucous membrane lining the stomach. If the patient will treat this mucous membrane of the stomach with any sort of decency, ceasing to aggravate its sensitive surface with indigestible matter, we garantee the use of Burdock Blood Bitters will cure him. That's all we ask. Give the stomach a fair chance, Burdock Blood Bitters will do the rest. Thousands of testimonials.

mIS OWN EXECUTOR.

A Well known Gentleman's Philanthrophy and the Commotion Caused by One of His Letters.

Rochester Democrat and Chronicle. We published in our local columns yesterday morning a significant letter from a gentleman known personally or by reputation to every person in the land. We have received a number of letters protesting against the use of our columns for such "palpable frauds and misrepre-sentations;" therefore to confirm beyond a doubt the authenticity of the letter, and the genuineness of its sentiments, a reporter of this paper was commissioned to ascertain all the possible facts in the matter. Accordingly he visited Clifton Springs, saw the author of the letter, and with the following result. Dr. Henry Foster, the gentleman in question, is 63 or 64 years of age and has an extremely cordial manner. He presides as superintendent over the celebrated sanitarium which accommodates over 500 guests and is unquestionably the leading health resort of the country. Several years ago this benevolent man wisely determined to be his own executor; and, therefore turned over this magnificant property worth $300,000, as a free gift to a board of trustees, representing the principal evangelical denominations Among the trustees are Bishop A. C. Coxe, Protestant Episcopal, Buffalo; Bishop Mathew Simpson, Philadelphia, Methodist Episcopal; President M. B. Anderson of the University of Rochester; Rev. Dr. Clark, Secretary of the A. B. C. F. M., Boston. The benevolent purpose of the institution is the care; lst.—of evangelical missionaries and their families whose health has been broken in their work. 2nd.—of ministers, of any denomination, in good standing. 3rd,—of members of any church; who otherwise would be unable to secure such that and nomination, in good standing. 3rd,—of members of any church; who otherwise would be unable to secure such tare and treatment. The current expenses of the institution are met by the receipt from the hundreds of distinguished and wealthy people who every year crowd its utmost capacity. Here come men and women who were once in perfect health, but neglected the first symptoms of disease. The uncertain pains they celt at first were overlooked until their health became implied. They little realized the danger before them, nor how alarming even trifling ailments might prove. They constitute all classes, including ministers and bishops, lawyers, judges of the land.

Drawing the morning Democrat and Chroricle from his pocket, the reporter remarked, "Doctor, that letter of yours has created a good deal of talk, and many of our readers have questioned its authenticity.

'To what do you refer?" remarked the doctor.

"Have you not seen the paper?"
"Yes, but I have not had time to read it vet."

The reporter thereupon showed him

For years I was afflicted with Dry Tetter of the most obstinate type. Was treated by many of the best physicians; took quantities of mercury, potash and arsenic, which, instead of curing the Tetter, crippled me up with mineral poison and themnatism. The Tetter continued to grow worse, and the itching almost made me crazy. In this condition I was induced to take Swift's Specific, and the reward with the Tetter was entirely well, the Mercurial Poisoning all out of my system, and I was a well man—and due only to Swift's Specific. Three Particular Points.

Point the First.-Brown's IRON BITTERS is not an intoxicating compound. It is a tonic medicine, not a drink. It is a skillfully compounded preparation made to restore strength and health; not a beverage to be sold in bar-rooms and taverns.

Point the Second.—Brown's Iron Bitters is free from everything injurious. The most delicate ladies and the most enfeebled infants may use it with perfect safety and with great advantage. While it is powerful in its remedial agency, it is gentle in its operation, restoring wasted strength and imparting robust health in the most efficient manner.

Point the Third.—Brown's IRON BITTERS is made by the Brown Chemical Company of Baltimore, a long-established house, whose reputation is well-known to the business world and the general community. There is no risk in buying such a medicine.
