Salting a Minnesota Mine.

The city of Duluth has been considerably excited over the practices of a company known as the Oneota Gold and Silver Mining company. Lastfallit was given out that Albert E. Sears and Edward Lightheart of Duluth had discovered what was claimed to be an exceedingly rich gold and silver mine in a ravine about one mile back of the village of Oncota. They pretended to keep the discovery a secret until they obtained possession of the land on which the vein cropped out. But more or less of the affair was published in the local papers during the winter. This spring a company was formed under the above name by Sears, Lightheart and James Malloch, and articles of incorporation were filed on the 3d of April. Since that time they have done all they could to attract public attention to the mine and create excitement by frequent reports of rich assays and improvements made, and specimens of rocks from the mine have been freely exhibited around the city. It is said considerable of the stock of the company was unloaded at $2 per share. T. H. Hulbert, a mining engineer and assayist, got hold of some specimens in free circulation, and found that the "mine" had been salted with gold shavings. what was claimed to be an exceedingly rich

Dr. H. B. Barkley of Radersburg, Mont., was murdered Monday, the 21st, at Indian's Creeks near Townsend. He went from his home to do some work on a mining ditch in which he was and his body found in the ditch on which he was at work. He had evidently been shot by some one in ambush. All his valuables were found on his body. Barkley was an old-timer, and was constantly in trouble with some one. It is said his litigations have cost Jefferson county over fifty thousand dallars. A notice has been found in Phenix park, near the spot where Lord Frederick Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke were assasinated, declaring that the Invincibles are impregnable. The notices were in mourning paper to which the cartridges were attached, fied with green ribbon. The notices were distributed along the road from Beggar's Bush to Phenix park. Some were found on the quays, others in letter boxes of newspaper offices. The words, "We will have revenge," were written in red ink. In one corner was a black and white cross.

Amos Chambers, Benjamin De Wolfe, Edwin W. Doyle and John Hadley, boys from fifteen to eighteen, masked themselves Saturday night at Portland, Me., and, armed with revolvers, ordered James Doherty, the night watchman to hold up his hands while they searched his pockets. They then left town. One was arrested in Hallowell, two in Agusta, and the fourth in Portland, he having returned home. The same gang a day before tied one of their number to the railroad track in fun, just as a train was coming. A man near by saw the train and released him.

Why is it-You should be particularly care ful to clean up the system and purify the blood in the spring, before the approach of warm weather. Because the hearty consumption of food and the indoor life of the winter months result me. in a large amount of food being taken into the stomach, a portion of which has not been dizested. AN ARMY EXPERIENCE

How an Old Veteran Escaped Annihilation and Lived to Impart a Warning to Others.

National Tribune of Washington. A pleasing occurrence which has just come to our notice in connection with the New York state meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic is so anusual in many respects that we venture to reproduce it for the benefit of our readers.

Captain Alfred Rensom, of New York, while pacing in the lobby of the armory, previous to one of the meetings, suddenly stopped and scanned the face of a gentleman who was in earnest conversation with one of the grand army officers. It seemed to him that he had seen that face before, partially obscured by the smoke of battle, and yet this bright and pleasant countenance could not be the same pale and death-like visage, which he so dimly remembered. But the recollection, like Banquo's ghost, would not "down" at command, and that Mrs. Helen Marshall Carroll had entered suit for divorce from her husband, Samuel Sprigg Carroll. Mrs. Carroll was married to Mr. Carroll at St. Louis in 1856. In the army the promotion of Carroll was rapid. After the war he settled in Washington, and was a few years ago retired with the rank and pay of a major general. He built him a fine home and lived in according style, with luxurious tastes. In the bill filed by G. B. Corkhill recently the petition says that she has positive proof that her husband has frequently had adulterous commerce with the keeper and also an inmate of a house of ill-fame. Gen. Carroll is well known in military circles throughout the whole known in military circles throughout the whole The man whom Captain Renson had recognized was Mr. W. K. Sage, of St. Johns, Mich., a veteran of the 23d N. Y. Light Artillery and both members of Burnside's famous expedition to North Carolina. After the first greetings were over, Captain Rensom said:

"It hardly seems possible, Sage, to see you in this condition, for I thought you must have been dead long ago.

"Yes, I do not doubt it, for if I am not mistaken, when we last met I was occuping a couch in the hospital, a victim of 'Yellow Jack' in its worst form."

"I remember. The war seems to have caused more misery since its close than when it was in progress," replied the Captain. "I meet old comrades frequently who are suffering terribly, not so much from old wounds as from the malarial poisons which ruined their constitutions.

"I think so myself. When the war closed I returned home and at times I would feel well, but every few weeks that confounded 'all-gone' feeling would come upon me again. My nervous system, which was shattered in the service, failed me entirely and produced one of the worst possible cases of nervous dyspepsia. Most of the time I had no appetite; then again I would become ravenously hungry, but the minute I sat down to eat I loathed food. My A number of rifle cartridges have been found skin was dry and parched, my flesh loose and flabby. I could hold courts and jurors have received threatening time, and what little I did est failed to mind was depressed; I was cross and irritable and many a night my heart would pain me so I could not sleep, and when I did I had horrid dreams and frightful nightmares. Of course, these things came on one by one, each worse than the other. My breath was foul, my tongue was coated, my teeth de-I had terrific headaches which would leave my nervous system completely shattered. In fact my existence since the war, has been a living death, from which I have often prayed for release.

"Couldn't the old surgeon do you any good?"

"I wrote him and he treated me, but like every other doctor, failed. all said my nerve was gone and without that to build upon I could not get well. When I was at my worst, piles of the severest nature came upon me. Then my liver gave out and without the use of cathartics I could not move my bowels at all. My blood got like a stream of fire and seemed literally to burn me

"Well you might better have died in battle, quick and without ceremony.' "How many times I have wished I had died the day we captured Newberne!

"And yet you are now the picture of health.

"And the picture is taken from life. I am in perfect condition. My nerve tone is restored; my stomach reinvigorated; my flesh is hard and healthy; in fact I have new blood, new energy and a new lease of life wholly as the result of using Warner's Tippecanoe. This remarkable preparation, which I consider the finest tonic and stomach restorer in the world has overcome all the evil influences of malaria, all the poison of the army, all traces of dyspepsia, all mal-assimilation of food, and indeed made a new man of

The captain remained silent for a while evidently musing over his recollections of the past. When he again raised his head he said:

"It would be a godsend if all the veterans who have suffered so intensely and also all others in the land who are enduring so much misery could know of your experience, Sage, and the way by which you have been restored."

And that is why the above conversation is recounted.

Iodide of Potassium is one of the strongest of the minerais used in medicine, and has produced much suffering in the world. Taken for a long time and in large doses, it dries up the gastric jucies, impairs digestion, the stomach refuses food, and the patient declines in health and weight. Fersons with Blood or Skin Diseases should be careful how they take these mineral poisons, as in most instances the effect of them is to almost permanently impair the constitution.
