Official Paper of Griggs County

Name your boy James G. Cleveland Burchard Ball Mugwump, and then you priate and witty remarks bridged over zie's powers, will make Mr. Williams can always tell how old he is, without looking at the back files.

The Argus is five years old, and if it shows one thing more than another, it is that its proprietor understands the newspaper business.

The Steele Herald seems to be somewhat agitated. It has been alleged that the election is over. Probably, Colonel Britton has not "heerd from Griggs."

The Pioneer Press makes fun of "Bohemian Girl Abbott," singing in St. Paul, and is enthusiastic over Emma the live air will be resonant with the bewitching melody of her Parisian toilets, and Adelina l'atti shall quiver in a paroxysm of sea green envy.

Mike DeYoung, of San Francisco, has been shot by the son of another alleged libeled party. The De Youngs have been writing editorials with the pen strapped to the muzzle of the derringer for years, and occasionally have done a little "killin"" on their own hook. Charles De Young, the senior member of the firm, it will be remembered, was killed by the son of I. S. Kolloch, the sand lot clerical leper, some time since. It is expected that the present De Young will recover.

The west borders of Virginia are afflicted with an awful scourge. No rain has fallen in months, every well is dry, a thousand people have perished, decaying carcasses of cattle fill the air with a horrible stench. Of 180 persons on Moccasin creek, 100 have died. The people are living on bark and nuts. The blood of dying animals is drank. Gladesville, Ky., is depopulated, and Lebanon is a graveyard. Joe Mullhatton is not
