At Richmond.

I was a prisoner in the old tobacco factory at Richmond in the Fall of 1861 and went with 500 others under the infamous Wirz to Tuscaloosa, Ala. What I want to call attention to is the difference in the treatment of prisoners in the beginning compared with what it was in the last part of the war, as I was again captured at Spottsylvania, May 10, 1864. The prisoners at Tuscaloosa were fairly well treated, as is prove by the low death rate. We lost but one or two of the number in the whole time we were there, from November to February. Compare the death rate with the same number in Andersonville or Florence in '64 and '65, and it is at once evident that the difference was very great.

I venture to say that the loss of any given 10 men would exceed that of the To my complaint to one of the rebel doctors who were tending the sick at Andersonville, he made this excuse: "You-uns have us blockaded, so we cannot get medicine even for our own sick, and we can't help ourselves."

"Well, Doctor," I said, "you must admit that you have plenty of wood, if nothing else, and one of the many reasons for the condition of this camp is because our food, such as it is, we have to eat half cooked, and I have seen men eat it raw. How long can you expect us to live on such fare?"

"Well," was his reply, "I see no reason why there is not all the wood that is needed, for we have plenty of that, and I will make a complaint to the proper officers."

This was all the good it did, for there was no improvement. The men continued to go into the mud, dig out the roots, wash and dry them, after which, made into small bundles, they "I have been informed that you are speculating in stocks," said the Presid-ent to the cashier. "Give it up. Take my advice and be on the safe side." Here sold for 10 cents each to help out the scanty supply that was issued to us; and this in the midst of boundless forest.-N. B. Parasols for Summer.

责

Parasols for spring and summer wear are large, long-handled and this season show ten gold or silver pointed ribs.

The fabrics of which parasols are constructed are of every sort of material used for dress, showing models in lace, plaided and striped velvet, colored net in plain green palm designs on grounds of ecru, etc., and similar patterns.

Vertical bands of satin or plush are arranged on gores of sheeny satin with stylish effect.

Farasols in mauresque shape are made wholly of corn silk tulle, the creamy folds are soft puffs banded down with strips of Lyons velvet ribbon in violet, wine color, dark moss green or black.

Point d'esprit is tucked and then laid over parasols of tinted satin duchess. Parasols have willow handles, handsomely carved, and inlaid with bits of dark wood vari-colored. Less novel styles are shown in para-agls of rich black or white lace of superb pattern, over foundations of satin in every conceivable shade.

There are many inexpensive sunshades, of which mention should be made, particularly of those of pongee, embroderied with daises.

Elegant-looking parasols of golden rown satin, lined with pale primrose

Towards night the storn abated and the party started for home, all declaring that it was one of the hap-piest days they had ever spent.

How Ingalls Won His Wife.

When Ingalls first went to Kansas he was supposed to be an irreclaimable bachelor. He paid no attention to the girls of the frontier, and the pretty maidens of the West cast their eyes at him in vain. He met, however, at a reception one night the daughter of a New York merchant, who had just come to Atchison. Her name was Miss Anna Cheeseborough, and she was very fair to look upon. He talked to her and found her conversation as bright as her eyes, and he rode back to Sumner full of possibilities which his soul had not dreamed of theretofore. Shortly after this one of his friends was married and Ingalls was asked to be his best man. To his delight he found that Miss Anna Cheeseborough was one of the bridesmaids. After this the court-ing went on rapidly and his marriage was the result. The Mrs. Ingalls of today is the Miss Anna Cheeseborough of the past. She is one of the brightest women of Washington society as well as one of the best looking. She has had a large family, but the cares of maternity do not weigh upon her, and she enters as fully into Senator Ingalls's political career as though she had no domestic matters to bother her. -Washington Letter to Providence Star.

He took his advice and left for Canada that night .- New York Sun.

This fine corrective neutralizes in brackish water—often compulsorily drank on shipboard, to the grievous detriment of health—the pernicious impurities which give rise to disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. To the mariner, the tourist, the Western pioneer and miner, the Bitters is invaluable as a means of protection against malaria, when its seeds are latent in air and water. To the effects of over work, mental or manual, it is a most re-liable antidote, and to the debilitated and nervous, it affords great and speedily felt relief and vigor. is positively indifferent whether he is washed

Millie Howad's May Party.

Millie Howard was to have a May party and all the little girls in her neighborhood were impatiently awaiting for the day to come. Millie's Uncle Alec was going to carry them to a grove in the country in his large three-seated buggy. At last the eventful day arrived and each little girl was waiting at the gate with her tiny hand-basket packed with goodies. They were soon on the way, and such a merry party, Uncle Alec talking and laughing as if he were as young as any of them. They were enjoying their ride so much that they did not notice a great black cloud gathering in the West until a distant peal of thunder was heard and a few great drops splashed down. They all looked around in dismay for some shelter and saw nothing but a little cottage about a half a mile distant. Uncle Alec whipped up the horses, and they were soon there, and when they knocked at the door a feeble voice bade them "come in." On entering they found a woman and a little girl lying on a bed in the farthest corner of the room. They appeared much surprised at seeing so many, but smiled and said nothing. Uncle Alec made inquiries and found that the lady had lost her and found that the lady had lost her husband some weeks since and was soon after taken sick and for two days Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, and bodily health and vigor will be established. Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors, from the common pinple, blotch, or eruption, to the worst Scrofula, or blood-poison. Especially has it proven its efficacy in curing Salt-rheum or Tetter, Fever-sores, Hip-joint Discase, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Enlarged Glands, and Eating Ulcers.

And Swellings, Enlarged Glands, and Eating Ulcers. Rey. F. Assurst Howell, Pastor of the M. E. Church, of Suverton, N. J., says: "I was af-flicted with catarrh and indigestion. Boils and blockets began to arise on the surface of the skin, and I experienced a tired feeling and duliness. I began the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as directed by him for such complaints, and in one week's time I began to feel like a new man, and am now sound and well. The 'Piesant Purgative Pellets' are the best reimedy for billous or sick headache, or tightness about the chest, and bad taste in the mouth, that I have ever used. A TERRIBLE A TERRIBLE AFFLICTION. Skin Disease.—The "Democrat and News," of Cambridge, Maryland, says: "Mrs. ELIZA ANN POOLE, wife of Leonard Poole, of Wil-lamsburg, Dorchester Co., Md., has been cured of a bad case of Eczems by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The disease ap-peared first in her feet, extended to the knees, covering the whole of the lower limbs from feet to knees, then attacked the elbows and became so severe as to prostrate her. After being treated by several physicians for a year or two she commenced the use of the medicine named above. She soon began to mend and is now well and hearty. Mrs. Poole thinks the medicine has saved her life and prolonged her days." Mr. T. A. AYBES, of East New Market, Dorchester County, Md., vouches for the above facts.

Consumption.-Mrs. EDWARD NEWTOR, of Harrousemith-ont, writes: "You will ever be praised by me for the remarka-ble cure in my case. I was so reduced that my friends had all riven me up, and I had also been given up by two doctors. I then went to the best doctor in these parts. He told me that medicine was only a punishment in my case, and would not undertake to treat me. He said I might try Cod liver oil if I liked, as that was the only thing that could possi-bly have any curative power over consumption so far advanced. I tried the Cod liver oil as a last reatment, but I was so weak I could not keep it on my stomach. My husband, not feeling satisfied to give me up yet, though he had bought for me to give me up yet, though he had bought for me of years, and now feel so much better that I believe, with a con-tinuation of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.'
