For some purposes these toy ponies are not only highly ornamental but useful. The pure bred Shetlands are small, from 32 to 42 inches high, well aped, short limbed, bright colored. long manes and tails, quick, intelligent. docile, easy to break, for riding or driving, and in a family of kind children there can be no more delightful pets. Mr. E. W. Hartman, of Indianola, has a pair of them which are our idea of the beautiful and the useful. The Marquis of Londonderrty has a very large breeding farm of the choicest of this class of ponies on Brassy Island, one of the Shetland Islands, and he frequently sends to the United States some of the most lovely specimens of ponies.

Any party who has a span of them, and can afford to keep them, they are ever a joy and a pleasure forever. It is only when they are bred pure, of choicly selected specimens for their domestic docility, that they are so valuable. When they are bred indiscriminately, running nearly wild on the Iceland mountains they are hard to make as kind and gentle as is desirable. They are never as gentle as when bred and raised with care and kin ness. When the true Shetland pony can be had it is a disgrace to expend any kindness over the ungainly and useless burro.

Happy Homes.

Much has been written and said about how to make home happy. The moralist and the preacher have hackneyed this and the preacher have hackneyed this theme until it would seem nothing more remained to be said. But the philosophers have gone far out of their way to account for the prevalence of ill-assorted couples and unhappy homes, and have over-looked the chief cause. Most of the unhappiness of married life can be traced directly to those functional derangements to which women are subject. In nine cases out of ten the irritable, dissatisfied and unhappy wife is a sufferer from some "female complaint." trial of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will produce more domestic happiness than trial of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will produce more domestic happiness than a million sermons or philosophical treatises. It cures all those peculiar weaknesses and ailments incident to women. It is the only medicine sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. Misery After Eating Is avoided by dyspeptics who, guided by the recorded experience of thousands, begin and systematically pursue a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Persistence in the use of this pure and highly accredited stomachic, is the sole and agreeable condition of the entire removal of the obstinate forms of dyspepsia, no less than a temporary fit of indigestion. In connection with the use of this specific, it is desirable to avoid articles of food which individual experience has shown to be difficult of digestion, by the stomach sought to be benefitted. Each dyspeptic's past observation of his digestive capacity should enable him to be his own guide and mentor in this particular, not trusting to any set of dietetic rules too general to be suited to particular cases. Billiousness and constipation, hearthurn, wind upon the stomach, sour cructations, headache and mental despondency, are among the concomitants of dyspepsia, and we put it to flight by the Bitters. and systematically pursue a course of Hos-

More than 1,000,000 pounds of the foil are used annually to cover the smoking and chewing tobacco manufactured in the United States alone. The method of making it is interesting. The tin is of course first taken out of the mines, the best of which for this purpose are in Australia and the Dutch possessions of the East Indies. The metal is found in veins or fissures called lodes, though it is often found in a dispersed form in loose stones, which when found continuously are called streams. The rock containing the ore is blasted with gunpowder and carried to the stamping mill, where it is pounded and washed. It is next smelted and the tin run into blocks containing from 200 to 400 weight each. This is the condition in which the metal is kept for

Two means are used to reduce it to the necessary thinness. The old manner of hammering by hand after being cut is still used to a great extent. By this process, however, only one surface could be produced, and to obviate this difficulty rolling mills were invented. Prior to their invention nearly all the tinfoil was imported, but their use has completly revolutionized the trade. The metal is now placed between two heavy rollers, which gives it a finishing surface on both sides. It is then cut into widths of from twelve to fifteen inches, rolled upon wooden reels and carried to cutting machines where it is cut according to order. It is then packed in boxes of one hundred pounds each, being laid in without pressure. There is another difference between the foil which is beaten and that which is rolled. The former is full of small holes, but the foil to be used for tobacco wrappers must be air tight.

Price of Pictures Past and Present.

In the days of Sir Joshua Reynolds very fine landscapes by such masters as Claude, Poussin, Cuyp, Ruysdael. and Hobbema were to be bought for 200 or 300 guineas, and the highest for a Claude was £520 for that beautiful picture known as "The Enchanted Castle" in the sale of M. de Callonne's (the French Ambassador) collection in 1795 in London, and £500 for the companion picture, described in the sale catalogue as "equally beautiful," but which has now not been identified. The prices which evince a high estimate of Claude before the days of modern landscapes are positively insignificant compared to those paid at auction during the last twenty years for landscapes and sea pieces by Turner, Constable, David Cox, Copley, Fielding, William Collins, W. Muller, Stanfield and Linnell. These go by thousands instead of hundreds of guineas. And Gainsborough comes into this honorable account now, though his landscapes while he painted them were thought little of, and he died leaving the passage and staircase of his rooms in Schomberg House, Pall Mall, encumbered with them. Yet we have not seen at Christies' his "Market Cart" bought for the National Gallery so far back as 1828 at close upon £1,200, and just twenty years ago his "Harvest Wagon" for £3,147 10s; in 1875 his "Rustics of a Road" for £3,465, and in 1883 "Peasants and Colliers Going to Market," £2,835? These are figures worthy of his genius. High prices for pictures by Crome, Patrick Nasmith, George Vincent. Gotham, and others of the old school might also be quoted. And still more forcibly to show the increased appreciation of landscapes at the present time there are not to be forgotten "the Chill October" of Sir John Milli, which as sold for £3,255 in the Mendel sale, 1875, and in the present season, his "Over the Hills and Far Away" for £5,260.-Nineteenth Century.

VEGETABLE PAINDESTROYER

It is fashionable to visit Europe by persons who know but little of this country. We have a greater variety of climates, grander scenery, more comfortable means of travel, and better hotels, than any country in the world. And yet thousands go to Europe who cannot give, when there, an intelligent answer to inquiries about the grandest country in the world. And yet this class of visitors spend annually for fare on British steamers, in travelling expenses, and trashy bric-a-brac, at least fifty millions of dollars annually. Russia seems determined to put a pretty heavy tariff on this class of insanity, of spending their money abroad among foreigners. The Russian Minister of Finance proposes to tax any person who goes out of the country 30 gold rubies for the first three months' of absence, 15 rubies a month for the next three months, 20 a month for the next three months, 25 per month for the fourth three months and 30 per month afterward. This would certainly be that kind of tariff which the consumer would pay the duty. And in cases where a government was hard pressed for revenue, it would be a far preferable way to raise money, to that resorted to in this country in the early days of the re-

Suffering Womanhood.

Teo much effort cannot be made to bring to the attention of suffering womanhood the great value of Lydia E. Pinkhams's Vegetable Compound as a Remedy for the diseases of women. Such an one is the wife of General Barringer of Winston, N.C., and we quote from the General's letter as follows: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: Please allow me to add my testimony to the most excellent medicinal qualities of your Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Barringer was treated for several years for what the physician called Leucorrhosa and Prolapsus Uteri combined. I sent her to Richmond, Va., where she re. mained for six months under the treatment of an eminent physician without any permanent benefit. She was induced to try your medicine and after a reasonable time commenced to improve and is now able to attend to her business and considers herself PULLY RELIEVED." LIVER DISEASE

HEART TROUBLE.

Mrs. Mary A. McClure, Columbus, Kans., writes: "I addressed you in November, 1884, in regard to my health, being afflicted with liver disease, heart trouble, and female weakness. I was advised to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Favorite Prescription and Pelletz. I used one bottle of the 'Prescription,' five of the 'Discovery, and four of the 'Pleasant Purgative Pelletz.' My health became back. My difficulties have all disappeared. I can work hard all day, or walk four or five miles a day, and stand it well; and when I began using the medicine I could scarcely walk across the room, most of the time, and I did not think I could ever feel well again. I have a little baby girl eight months old. Although she is a little delicate in size and appearance, she is healthy. I give your remedies all the credit for curing me, as I took no other treatment after beginning their use. I am very grateful for your kindness, and thank God and thank you that I am as well as I am after years of suffering."

Skin Disease.—The "Democrat and News," of Cambridge, Maryland, says: "Mrs. Eliza Ann Poole, wife of Leonard Poole, of Wildensburg, Dorchester Co., Md., has been cured of a bad case of Eczema by using Dr. Pierco's Golden Medical Discovery. The disease appeared first in her feet, extended to the knees, covering the whole of the lower limbs from feet to knees, then attacked the elbows and became so severe as to prostrate her. After being treated by several physicians for a year or two she commenced the use of the medicine named above. She soon began to mend and is now well and hearty. Mrs. Poole thinks the medicine has saved her life and prolonged her days."

Mr. T. A. Aybes, of East New Market, Dorchester County, Md., vouches for the above facts.
