

victory for the best ticket. The best ticket has won and we agree heartily For division with the victors.

The Doctor is Radical.

The Times is in favor of prohibiting the Germans from eating sauerkraut, the Norwegians from eating ludefish, and the bluebellied know-nothing Yankee from cracking beans. We believe that mules and asses, hogs and swine and d-n fools should be prohibited from running at large. Let us have reform. -Traill County Times.

For the Lawyers.

The question now arises: "Is the local option law constitutional?" It is alleged that it is a delegation of legislative powers to the people. The decisions are conflicting. In earlier days, such a law was held void. The decisions in latter days are decisive that such a law is constitutional and will hold. In the meantime the lawyers will reap a rich harvest from the liquor men, who are desirous of "blowing in" the money they have accumulated.

Courier, July 11th, 1884.

Towa is a prohibition state. The new law is ridiculed and a st urdy kicking is in progress; but the effect will no doubt be salutary. Dakota would be better For division..... off under the Maine luquor law than under license. We haven't the great est amount of sympathy with the temper- Against the sale ance element, which int emperately parades alcohol as the source of all evil but it is certainly an evil, and a partial interruption of the traffic is better than none at all. The Maine liquor law re moves temptation from the non-drink ing, and puts the old toper to his trumps in order to get an occasional dram.

Judge Francis is yet in Washington, and the Jamestown term of court may necessarily be delayed. The judge does not propose to be bounced. Frank Wilkeson, the talented author and newspaper correspondent, is traveling in the northwest and writing letters for the New York Times in his customary brilliant, incisive and somewhat pessimistic vein. In one of his recent letters he tells how he was forced to admit, quite contrary to his former belief that wheat could be raised in North Dakota at a cost as low as 17 cents a bushel. Wilkeson met in Duluth one of the bonanza farmers, Mr. Howe, of Casselton, who gave him that remarkable low figure as the cost of his last year's crop. Wilkeson begged his parpardon, insisted that there must be something wrong with his book keeping: said he had raised wheat himself in Kansas, and knew it could not be grown at anything near that figure, whereupon How challenged him to the proof, inviting him to visit his farm and offering him a letter to his foreman, opening all the books to his inspection. -Wilkeson stopped at Casselton, and having a fondness for doing things thoroughly, spending two days on the farm, went through the books, questioned the foreman and satisfied himself that there was not as much as a ball of twine omitted, from the expense account. Then he ciphered on the number of bushels sold, and found that the cost of production was actually only 162 cents per bushel.-E. V. Smalley in Northwest.

Hammer and Torfin have practically the solid vote. The official canvass will not vary materially from the above figures.

Talk about fraudulent tickets. There were no fraudulent tickets. The great fraud consisted in one judge declaring 9 his intention at Church's after 8 votes had been cast, to open the box and throw out the tickets of eight legal voters and commence over again. This is worthy of South Carolina in its palmiest days. Cooper's "reserve" were legal votes.

ANARCHISTS HUNG Three of the Reds stretch hemp; while Desperate Lingg Blows his Brains Out.

Schwab and Fielden go to Joliet for Life.

(The following special despatch is authentic and was received by the Counses at $ p.m.) COOK COUNTY JAIL, Chicago, Nov. 11.—Anarchist Parsons, Fischer, Engen and Spies, the convicted Haymarket murderers have been throttled by the law, the selfsame law they had hop id to throttle. Their scaffold drop fell at 12:02 p. m. today. 10 a. m. Parsons, Fischer and Spice asked for twenty minutes each on the gallows in which to make speeches. 10:11. Fischer is singing the Marseillaise in which the other prisoners are joining, the voice of Fischer seems round and full but quivering just a trifle. 10:15. The governor has positively and finally refused to interfere with the execution of Parsons. Spies, Engel and Fischer by reprieve or otherwise. Later, 12:07 p.m. The gallows. The pulse of the dying men stopped beating in 121 minutes after drop.

Anarchists Schwab and Filden will at once be taken to the penitentiary where they will undoubtly spend the balance of their days.

Another dispatch which is probably correct is to the effect that Lingg found means before the execution to destroy umself with a dynamite bomb. He exploded it in such a manner as to blow his head from his body. No trouble nor is apprehended.

Cable Boads Preparing for Frost. The Cable Road company are already preparing for winter. When the road vas built due allowance was made for the expansion and contraction of the ironwork itself caused by heat and cold, but the pressure on the rails caused by the same agencies seems to have been entirely forgotten. The first cold snap of winter brought any quantity of trouble to the company. It froze the rain and snow water which had been allowed to American conventions, that the chairsettle in the spaces between the paving stones lying between the rails and the iron forming the slot through which the grips pass. The stones spread farther and farther apart, and, pressing against the ironwork, closed up the slot so effectually that the grips were gripped firmer than they ever grasped the cable, and the read was blocked completely until gangs of men tore up the pavement at various points and pried the slot open with crowbars. The company are now busily engaged relaying the pavement between the tracks, leaving considerable space between the stones. These spaces are first filled with gravel and finally run as full of hot pitch as possible, in the hope that water will find no space to lodge and freeze in this winter.-New York Evening Sun.

SCENE AT LINCOLN'S NOMINA at Which Pervs

high Pervaded to nal Convention is Though it was not expected to b cisive, the very first ballot foreshed accurately the final result. The plimentary" candidates received the ute of admiration from their resp states. Vermont voted for Collamer states. Vermont voted for Colls New Jersey for Dayton, each solid. sylvania's compliment to Cameron shorn of 6 votes, 4 of which went at c for Lincoln. Ohio divided her com ment, 84 for Chase, 4 for McLean, an once gave Lincoln her 8 remaining Missouri voted solid for her ca

Bates, who also received a scat tribute from other delegations. But these compliments were of little a to their recipients, for far above a towered the aggregates of the leading candidates: Seward, 173 1-2; Lincoln, 102

In the ground swell of suppressed citement which pervaded the conve there was no time to analyze this vote nevertheless, delegates and spectators fell the full force of its premonition; to who desired the defeat of Seward is pointed out the winning man with un-erring certainty. Another little wrange over some disputed and protesting delegate made the audience almost furious the delay, and "Call the roll!" sounded from a thousand throats.

A second ballot was begun at last, and, obeying a force as sure as the law of gravitation, the former complimentary votes came rushing to Lincoln. The whole 10 votes, of Collamer, 44 from Cameron, 6 from Chase and McLean, were now cast for him, followed by scatter of additions along the whole roll call. In this ballot Lincoln gained 79 votes, Seward only 11. The faces of the New York delegation whitened as the balloting progressed and as the torrent of Lincoln's popularity became a river. The result of the second ballot was: Seward, 184 1-2; Lincoln, 181; scattering, 99 1-2. When the vote of Lincoln was announced there was a tremendous burst of applause, which the chairman prudently, but with difficulty, controlled and silence The third ballot was begun amid a breathless suspense; hundreds of pencils kept pace with the roll call, and nervously marked the changes on their tally sheets. The Lincoln figures steadily swelled and grew. Votes came to him from all the other candidates-4 1-3 from Seward, 2 from Cameron, 13 from Bates, 18 from Chase, 9 from Dayton, 8 from McLean, 1 from Clay. Lincoln had gained 50 1-2, Seward had lost 4 1-2. Long before the official tellers footed up their columns spectators and delegates rapidly made the reckoning and knew the result: Lincoln, 231 1-2, Seward, 180. Counting the scattering votes, 465 ballots had been cast, and 233 were necessary to a choice; only 1 1-2 votes more were needed to make a nomination.

A profound stillness suddenly fell upon the wigwam; the men ceased to talk and the ladies to flutter their fans; one could distinctly hear the scratching of pencils and the ticking of telegraph + instruments on the reporters' tables. No announcement had been made by the chair; changes were in order, and it was only a question of seconds who should speak with the outside anarchists has occurred first. While every one was leaning forward in intense expectancy, Mr. Cartter sprang upon his chair and reported change of four Ohio votes from Chase to Lincoln. There was a moment's pause, a teller waved his tally sheet toward the skylight and shouted a name, and then the boom of a cannon on the roof of the wigwam announced the nomination to the crowds in the streets, where shouts and salutes took up and spread the news. In the convention the Lincoln river now became an inundation. Amid the wildest hurrahs, delegation after delegation. changed its vote to the victor.

Signs of Wind.

Father Dominick Navarette in the Seventeenth century discovered certain in-fallible signs of wind. One never failing token "was the running and fluttering about of little insects aboard the ship, and the more restless they are the higher the wind, and by observing what place they came from mariners shall know if it will be fair." Another sign, according to his reverence, is when pigs begin to run and tumble about a ship in a calm. Baumgarten, in his "Travels," says he was with a pilot who, by putting his finger in the mouth and then holding it up, "prognosticated to us that we should have wind very speedily, which, indeed, proved accordingly." All that the modern sailor can do by wetting his finger and lifting it is to feel if there be any movement in the air. The digit has long ceased to be a sibyl. Formerly the Brittany fishermen raised the wind at will by procuring the dust swept out of a certain church and blowing it in the direction from which they desired the breeze to come. Sardinian sailors also possessed the same useful art. To procure a fair wind they had nothing to do but to sweep a chapel after mass and blow the dust of it after departing ships. -London Telegraph.

man of the vanquished delegation is first to greet the nominee with a short address of party fealty and promise of party support. Mr. Evarts, the spoke-man for New York, essayed promptly to perform this courteous office, but was de-layed a while by the enthusiasm and coufusion. The din at length anounced that ion the presiding officer announced that ion Lincoln, of the third ballot Abraham 'Lincoln, Illinois, received 364 votes, and "is lected as your candidate for president of the United States." Then Mr. Evarts, in a voice of unconcealed emotion, but with admirable dignity and touching eloquence, speaking for Seward and for New York, moved to make the nomination unanimous.-The Century.

A Sultan's Palace.

The sultan of Johore has a wonderful palace near Singapore. Its wealth and beauty rival the "Arabian Nights" tales in splendor; and he is always willing to show his marvels to the many strangers touching at his shores. He entertains his guests at meals with food served in golden vessels, which service cost $700,-000. The regalia he wears is valued at $500,000, a sword Queen Victoria presented cost the neat sum of $50,000, and he delights to dazzle the eyes of his en-chanted spectators with these wondrous visions of wealth.—The Argonaut.

negroes' Poetical Superstition.

The country negroes in South Carolina, Georgia and portions of Florida have a very pretty and somewhat poetical superstition. During the stillness of the night, when the gentle swaying pine trees are singing their weird requiems, whole fami-lies will sit about their cabin doors and listen intently to this music of the forest. In its changing melody they hear the voices of dead friends predicting good or evil for the future or revealing secrets of the tomb.-Brooklyn Citizen.

Whole wheat preparations are proved to be far richer in the possession and a proper distribution of the best life ele-ments than any other single article of food
